Titus Measure Would Change State Government

ONLY OFFICES BACKED BY LAW WOULD SURVIVE

Entire System of Government Would Revolve About Finance Bureau

ELIMINATES DUPLICATION Measure Provides for Consolidation of Many Departments

By Associated Press
Madison—Only the duly constituted state offices established by the constitution, and 20 other departments and commissions of state government would survive under the new plan of Wisconsin government submitted in a bill in the state legislature by Senator William A. Titus of Fond du Lac.
This schedule is based on the Pennsylvania plan of reorganization he said Wednesday. The following departments are created or retained under the bill.

Adjutant general, department of agriculture; athletic commission; board of control; civil service commission;
conservation commission, executive board; department of finance, board of health; highway commission; industrial commission, department of insurance, free library commission;
board of normal regents; board of university regents; mining school board prohibition commission; public utility commission, revisor of statutes and superintendent of public property.

All other state boards and commissions are to be abolished or consolidated with others under the bill.

FINANCE IS KEY
The entire system of state government under the Titus plan would revolve about the department of finance which would be given unusual powers of direction and supervision over other departments. The state executive board also is given certain supervising powers especially in the standardizing of titles, wages and salaries of all persons employed in administrative departments and in systematizing
the business of all such boards and commissions.

Under the bill, the annuity board and the public normal and university retirement boards are consolidated with the state department of public instruction as is the state board of vocational education.

All examining boards of medical character, such as dentistry, medicine, nursing and pharmacy are consolidated with the state board of health, the bill provides.

The railroad commission bureau of weights and measures and the state board of conciliation would be consolidated with the proposed public utility commission composed of three members appointed by the governor with the approval of the senate for a term of six years.

The compensation insurance board,
under the plan, is merged with the department of insurance, headed by a commissioner whose term would run four years.

COMBINES OFFICES
Consolidations with the department of agriculture would include the livestock sanitary board, state entomologist, dairy and food commissioner, department of markets and grain,
and the warehouse commission.

An adjutant general and a commissioner of agriculture would be appointed under the plan. The executive board, the bill states, would consist of the governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general and state superintendent of schools. This board would have power, in addition to that mentioned, to approve or disapprove of the establishment of the bureaus and divisions in any department, to investigate duplication of work in public departments. Each board, commission and department would be required to report to the executive board periodically work accomplished by inspectors and employees.

Under the finance department made up of the governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, ex-officio members and three appointive members to hold titles of tax commissioner, banking commissioner and director of the budget, the work suggested by the bill would be the addition of those of the printing board, the treasury agent and the state board of accountancy would be included. This board would be charged with the work of accounting in all departments. The state board of control would consist,
under the bill, of three members, one of them a woman, appointed for six years with the consent of the senate.

POSTPONE CROWNING GLORIA AS QUEEN OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Beverly Hills, Calif. — Enthronement of the Marchioness de La Falaise et de La Coudre, formerly Gloria Swanson, motion picture actress, as "queen of the League of Nations," was indefinitely postponed as the result of a police conference here at which it was decided that Charles Wesley Brinks, stenographer and self-styled
"King of the League of Nations," should be turned over to the psychopathic ward of the general hospital for observation as to his sanity.

Brinks was arrested Sunday night when he forced his way into the film star's home here despite the protests of servants and announced that he and the marchioness, as reigning heads of the league, would make the Beverly Hills residence their headquarters.

CALIFORNIA FARM COLONY PUTS LAST HOPE IN NEW PLANS

Discouraged Settlers Blame Mismanagement for Failure

By Associated Press
Delhi Colony, Calif. — California's second state land settlement, the Delhi Colony, has resulted in a band of disheartened farmers who place their only hope in remedial legislation affecting payment on their places and an appropriation of $250,000 to make necessary improvements.

The colonists who settled from middlewestern and eastern state under a plan sponsored and endorsed by the state through its land settlement board, headed by Dr. Edwood Mead, father of the land colonization plan in the United States, Tuesday, laid their story of hardship and disaster before the legislative committee.

Already 48 settlers have abandoned farms.

Claiming to be victims of mismanagement and of pyramided costs, settlers laid the account of their years of effort before the committee and asked help to save their farms and homes.

On their tour of the colony the committee for the first time came into direct touch with the settlers as individuals. They met Charlie Stoop, a smiling, hardworking young man of 34, who came to Delhi with $3,300 in cash and invested it because he "loved to farm."

Charlie has a $3,200 mortgage on his 40 acres, although he has worked since 1920. He pays interest amounting to $65 a month.

The committee passed many vacant homes, abandoned by farmers who had found the game too hard.

A successful land colony located at Durham on the old Stanford grant, one of the richest ranches in the Sacramento valley, was the first project colonized by the state under the administration of the land settlement
board. This project resulted in scores of small successful farmers
under the administration of Dr. Mead
and George C. Krutzer, both of whom are now in the United States
reclamation service.

Fighting Breaks Out Anew in China

Shanghai.—Fighting has again broken out between Sun Yatsen's followers in Kwangtung province and troops of the Chih-li General Chen Ching-min. The Sun Yat-sen forces claim the capture of Tamsui, 15 miles south of Wachow, which is Chen's stronghold and headquarters.

Peking.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen south China leader, growing weaker every hour since he was operated upon for cancer, Wednesday was removed from the Rockefeller hospital here to the Kuomintang headquarters established in the former residence of Wellington Koo another Chinese leader. It is believed the removal of Dr. Sun to new quarters was prompted by members of the Kuomintang, Dr.
Sun's political party, in view of his approaching death.

RAIL CHIEFS DESIRE WAR, EMPLOYEES SAY

Organized Workers Reply to Alleged Declaration of Presidents

LABOR MAKES STATEMENT

Political Struggle Behind Fight Between Transport Factions

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—The organized railway employees have answered
what they construe to be a declaration of war on them by the railroad executives.

A "common program of defense" is announced by the employees simultaneously with a confession that the railroads have succeeded for the time being in blocking legislation that was designed to bring peace in the transportation world.

Donald Richberg outlined for the employees, has made public a statement by a subcommittee of 20 railway labor organizations which is to be submitted for consideration at a meeting of chief executives of these organizations in Chicago on Friday.

This statement discloses from the labor viewpoint what has been going on for several weeks. Says Mr. Richberg:

"Blessed are the peace-makers. The organized railway employees sought to establish industrial peace on the railroads."

SEEK PUBLIC AID
"They sought the aid of public officials to protect the public interest in transportation service."

"They sought the aid of railway presidents to promote continuous and efficient operation of the roads."

"The highest government officials welcomed the peace-makers."

"The president and his cabinet, leaders of both houses of congress,
gave their time generously and sympathetically to the work of peace."

"The railway presidents did not want peace. They hired a gang of publicity agents to throw mud at the peace-makers and their friends."

"The highest public officials of the nation asked the railway presidents to attend a peace conference—to end industrial warfare on the railways—to join in writing a law of peace."

"The railway presidents refused even to attend a conference to discuss peace."

"The railway presidents are making war upon their employees. They do not want the war stopped."

"The railway presidents want to go on fighting—no matter how much the public suffers."

"They want the public to help them fight. They do not want the public to help them make peace. Blessed are the peace-makers—but not on the railways."

SEEKS COOPERATION
There follows a story of what happened to the Howell-Barkley bill. It is revealed that Secretary Hoover asked the railway presidents to join the employees in conference on the subject of the bill. The presidents administration of the land settlement
board. This project resulted in
scores of small successful farmers
under the administration of Dr. Mead
and George C. Krutzer, both of whom are now in the United States
reclamation service.

Back of the fight between the railways and their employees is a political struggle. Unquestionably the railroad employees were led to support the La Follette movement because they thought their power would be increased. President Coolidge has not been hostile to these labor elements but has in his message to congress used language which they construe as an endorsement of their efforts for collective bargaining and voluntary mediation. It is significant that Mr.
Richberg sketches the feature with a denial of any political motives or plans for government ownership.

Mr. Richberg's pronouncement is the first since last summer when he accused many newspapers and news agencies of suppressing or misrepresenting the labor side of the controversy over the Howell-Barkley bill. The foregoing excerpts contain the essential points in the argument of the railway employees.

Loses Long Fight President of University of Michigan Dies After Illness Start- ing Last May

Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of the University of Michigan, died Wednesday after a hard battle with a complication of diseases. Dr. Burton rallied time after time and recovered sufficiently to take part in the commencement exercises last June. Thereafter he rested until the Cleveland convention where he delivered the address nominating President Coolidge. His final illness started in November.

Nature Puts Seal On Floyd Collins' Tomb

By Associated Press
Cave City—Sand Cave hill, torn open in the struggle to rescue Floyd Collins from the grip of an underground trap, was slowly closing in again Wednesday upon his body.

Without human assistance, unable to release him from the clutch of nature,
the volunteers who fought to save him joined his family in brief and simple funeral services at the top of the rescue shaft, and six of his friends fulfilled the legal formal-ties by announcing his identity and accidental death.

The cement with which it was planned to seal the boulders over his rocky grave did not come and the sagging of the rescue shaft and its lateral tunnel indicated nature's intention to seal him up forever. The mud and rocks, held back for a few days by heavy timbers in the rescue shaft were settling back upon him.

Unwilling that the brave miners should risk their lives to recover his body, Lee Collins, his aged father agreed to leave him where he lay. A prayer, a few hymns, and the ritual for the dead finished the story while movie cameras whirled and "still"
pictures by the score were snapped.

The best efforts of the State of Kentucky, scores of unselfish workers and the sympathy and prayers of thousands had failed. Dr. William Hazlett of Chicago, the only physician to see him in his 60-foot grave announced he had been reached at least days too late.

Everett Maddox of Central Ky., crawled down to wash his face and turn his face upward, and then six of his friends went down, one by one, into the narrow tomb to identify him for the coroners' jury, which they composed. The last of these was John Gerald, who risked his life many times in the futile effort to draw him out of the natural tunnel before a rock slide sealed off that channel. Then they came into Cave City, solemnly assembled and judicial-ly announced their verdict of "death by exposure caused by being accidentally trapped in what is commonly called Sand Cave."

This was entered into the record of the state military board which took testimony from all those connected with the story, and the drama closed.

Within a few hours the workers,
the officials, soldiers and the newspapermen scattered to their homes,
the days of struggle and anxiety over.

STRIKE BETWEEN REDS AND BULGARS GROWING

By Associated Press
Sofia—The strife between the Bulgarian government and the Communists is growing in intensity.

Todor Stankovitch, a Communist deputy, was shot and killed Tuesday in front of the principal hotel. His assassins, firing on their pursuers, wounded an army officer.

At Philippopolis, the secretary of the police department was killed and the chief of police wounded in an ambush set by Communists.

Communist emigres, numbering 20, came over the Serbian border near Vidin and raided a village. They were however, repulsed and one was killed.

A bloc of parties has endorsed the government's campaign to maintain order.

LONDON TALKS OF COOLIDGE ARMS CONCLAVE

Officials in Washington Deny Definite Results Are Reached

EXTEND NAVAL TREATY

Chamberlain's Announcement Brings Confirmation of Report

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — Informal discussion of a new arms conference to be called by President Coolidge has been proceeding in London but officials here indicated Wednesday that no definite results had been attained.

The state department would not discuss the subject beyond authorizing the statement that the conversations had not yet reached the point of an exchange of formal notes.

It is assumed in the absence of official comment, that the steps taken look to an extension of the Washington naval treaty so as to include a limitation on auxiliary craft as well as capital ships.

Such a project was under consideration here at the time the league of nations brought forward its plan for an arms conference to be held under league auspices. That plan since has encountered obstacles, and President Coolidge has said he only awaited an opportune moment to make a conference suggestion.

CONFIRM DISCUSSION
Confirmation of the new arms conference discussions was obtainable here only after the announcement of such a step made by Foreign Secretary Chamberlain in the house of commons Wednesday had been read by high officials. It was suggested that the most recent developments in the conversations between Ambasador Kellogg and Mr. Chamberlain might not have been reported by cable.

An indication that the proposed conference would relate only to auxiliary naval craft is seen in the known belief of Secretary Hughes that land armaments are essentially a European question.

President Coolidge's announcement that he hoped to call a new conference was contained in his address last summer accepting the Republican presidential nomination.

The state department's announcement Wednesday that the move had not yet reached the stage of formal diplomatic correspondence indicated nevertheless that a far advance may have been made.

Obviously, no nation would take the risk of having an invitation to such a conference refused and consequently it is the custom to ascertain in advance "informally" whether invitations would be acceptable.

TIED OF MANUFACTURERS' THREATS, ATTORNEY SAYS

By Associated Press
Madison — The administration income tax bill, on which public hearing was held Tuesday was to be considered by the senate committee on corporations and taxation in executive session Wednesday afternoon, Chairman Johnson said. The public hearing attended by several hundred persons from all parts of the state, developed arguments by opponents of the measure that it was inimical to the manufacturing and business interests and the contention of proponents that it would adjust discriminations now existing. During the debate at the close of the hearing B. C. Ziel-ger of West Bend charged M. B. Olbrich, Madison attorney, with making false statements in support of the measure and Mr. Olbrich declared
"we're getting tired of talk by manufacturers of leaving the state."

HEAD OF MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY DEAD AFTER LONG FIGHT

Dr. Marion Leroy Burton Succumbs to Sickness Starting Last May

By Associated Press
Ann Arbor, Mich.—Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of the University of Michigan died here early Wednesday.

Death came at the end of a long fight in which Dr. Burton rallied time after time from the ill effects of a complication of diseases. He suffered his first illness last May but recovered sufficiently to take his usual part in the June commencement exercises of the school. He spent the summer in rest, broken only by the trip to Cleveland, where he made the speech nominating Calvin Coolidge for president.

He seemed then to be returning to the abundant health which had carried him through 14 years as a college head.

With the return of the students to the campus in September, President Burton again threw himself into the routine duties of his office working sometimes 18 hours a day. His final illness dates from an evening early in November, when he appeared at the school auditorium introducing Viljalmar Stefansson, explorer. He collapsed following his appearance on the platform and physicians, hurriedly summoned, found him suffering from an affected heart. It was this trouble which finally caused his death.

Mrs. Burton and a son and daughter were at the bedside when the end came. Her daughter, Mrs. George B.
Stewart of Berkeley, Calif., failed to reach Ann Arbor.

President Burton will be buried in Forest Hill Cemetery here. It was announced Wednesday.

Funeral services will be semiprivate and at the Burton residence and probably on Saturday though the date is not certain. Arrangements were being made to have the body lie in state on Friday.

Dollar Day Big Bargain Event

Dollar day in Appleton stores started with a rush Wednesday morning and within a few hours after the doors were opened most of the stores were crowded. The snowstorm which reached here in the forenoon had very little effect on the shopping crowds and sales-people were busy all day.

Dollar day sales are semi-annual merchandising events in Appleton and merchants are eager to make them as popular as possible. The sale this year was sponsored by Appleton Advertising club and its members are desirous that shoppers and merchants offer suggestions and criticisms that will make future sales still more successful. The suggestions can be given to any member of the club.

APPLETON MAN LOSES CAR IN AUTO TRAGEDY

S. W. Murphy's Automobile Destroyed Following Collision Near DePere

YOUNG WOMAN IS KILLED

Body, Burned to Crisp, Is Found Under Wreckage of Destroyed Machine

A young woman was burned to death and two automobiles, one driven by S. W. Murphy, general manager of the Riverside Fibre and Paper Co., Appleton were destroyed by fire which followed a collision of the two cars on Highway 15, just north of DePere about 11:30 Tuesday night. The young woman was Miss Martha Marshall, 24, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Marshall, DePere, whose body, burned to crisp, was found under the twisted wreckage two hours after the collision. William E. Chalmers, driver of the car in which Miss Marshall was riding, and his companion, Louis Boehm, were arrested in Shawano, their home city, early Wednesday morning. No definite charge was lodged against them and they were returned to Green Bay, to be held as witnesses. It is probable a coroner's inquest will be held later in the day.

APPLETON MAN UNHURT
Neither Mr. Murphy nor his companion, C. M. Lloyd and Peter Ma-haver, papermill representatives, both of Chicago, were injured. Their car, according to Mr. Murphy, was struck from the rear and turned over in a ditch. The three men managed to kick the doors which got out of the roadless a man and a woman at night.
After viewing the wreckage, they walked to DePere where they got on a train, the Chicago men going through to their homes while Mr.
Murphy got off here.

Mr. Murphy was returning to Appleton from Green Bay where he took his guests for dinner. They were driving on the right side of the road between 25 and 30 miles an hour, when their car was struck from the rear.
The shock forced their car into the ditch.

DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT GIRL
Mr. Murphy was unable to state
Wednesday morning whether his car or the Studebaker driven by Chalmers was first to catch fire. Mr. Murphy did not know who was in the other party nor did he know there was a girl in the burning wreckage until Wednesday morning.

According to information from Green Bay, Chalmers and Boehm did not know the girl was in the wreckage. The young men were thrown clear of the car and they thought that Miss Marshall also was safe. When they did not see her near the wreckage they concluded she had gone to her home in DePere. Later in the night they telephoned to the Marshall home and asked if the young woman had returned home. They were told she did not. A little later they engaged a taxi and were taken to their homes in Shawano.

The girl's body was not discovered until after 2 o'clock and it was unrecognizable.

Apparently no one but the persons directly concerned saw the accident.
Shortly after 12 o'clock P. Martin, a motorcycle policeman, pulled up to the burning car and saw a man standing nearby but he died before he could be questioned. Later, two counsels passed the burning cars but did not stop, the policeman said.

ZEEGERS, HELD FOR ATTACKING COUSIN. MUST FACE TRIAL

Fellow Workmen Describe Circumstances of Assault at Kimberly

Peter Zeegers, Kimberly, was bound over for trial of the charge of committing an assault on the person of his cousin, Peter, VanderWellen, with intent to do great bodily harm by an order of County Judge Fred V. Heinemann, acting municipal judge, Tuesday afternoon.

The preliminary examination of Zeegers was attended by about 100 persons, most of them being residents of Kimberly and acquaintances of the accused and the accused.

The examination was conducted by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, while Attorney Theodore Berg, representing the defendant, did the cross-examination.

HEARD BREAKING BONES

VanderWellen, whose skull was crushed in the encounter attributed to Zeegers, was unable to be present and testified by letter by an order of County Judge Fred V. Heinemann, acting municipal judge, Tuesday afternoon.

The preliminary examination of Zeegers was attended by about 100 persons, most of them being residents of Kimberly and acquaintances of the accused and the accused.

The examination was conducted by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, while Attorney Theodore Berg, representing the defendant, did the cross-examination.

Under the circumstances, for Coolidge to tell the ladies that the finest thing they could do would be to send him another senator, "like Senator Edge," made an already embarrassing situation still more so.

Coolidge's economy program is the one big barrier that prevents members of the House from achieving a measure of privacy approaching that already enjoyed by members of the Senate.

In providing office accommodations for members of Congress, Uncle Sam built two handsome white marble buildings of approximately equal size.

But whereas the Senate office building must house only 90 senators, the House building must provide quarters for no less than 435 members.

The result is that while each senator has a commodious suite of from three to four or five rooms, members of the House, except for chairmen of important committees, have only one.

A proposal to construct additional quarters within the present building finds unanimous favor among members.

But brought face to face with the administration demand for a cut in government expenses of some 200-odd millions next year, it seems certain that the next Congress, at least, will have to struggle along with "no more privacy than an elephant in a zoo."

The only other witness to go on the stand was R. W. Caesar, Kimberly village marshal, who testified of making the arrest.

POLICE COLLECT $500 IN DELINQUENT TAXES

Appleton police on the first day of their tax collection rounds collected approximately $500 in delinquent taxes, and as a result a number of delinquent taxpayers were taken off the list. Police are making an effort to collect delinquent personal property, income and dog taxes.

JUNIORS DO ALL WORK CONNECTED WITH PLAY

In staging a class play at Appleton high school all work is undertaken by members of the class.

Orville Myse is stage manager for "A Successful Calamity," which the Junior class of Appleton high school will present Monday evening, Feb. 23, under the direction of Miss Ruth McKennan.

Nilton Lillie is advertising manager, Edward Blesman, and Miss Jane Steenla have charge of the ticket campaign and Miss Marie Hatcher is in charge of properties.

"A Successful Calamity" is the annual production given by the Junior class of the high school. The author is Clara Kummer, who has written many Broadway successes. The action of the play takes place in one act, which is quite elaborate.

WEYAUWEGA MAN HURT BUT CAN'T TELL HOW

John Peterson, Weyauwega, a mule, was injured early Tuesday afternoon while cutting wood on his land about three miles east of the village. He was alone when the accident occurred and is unable to tell how it happened. Mr. Peterson managed to get to the nearest farm house, the home of Mrs. Herman Redfield, where a doctor was summoned and it was found that he had a deep laceration on his head and a broken arm. Friends from Weyauwega went to the scene of the accident but were unable to find anything but his ax. It is believed that Mr. Peterson was in a tree trimming branches when he fell, striking his head.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT FOR THIRD TIME IN MONTH

A regular meeting of the common council will be held in the city hall at 7:30 Wednesday evening. This is the third meeting of the month, last Thursday's meeting following a session of the committee of the whole in which the council had resolved itself two weeks ago.

President "Pulls Boner" When He Calls In Edge

BY HARRY B. HUNT

Washington.—Even a president can pull a "boner." Which is what President Coolidge accomplished during the call at the White House a few days ago of the 800 officers and privates in the "Coolidge Army of New Jersey."

This Coolidge Army is an exclusive feminine outfit. Perhaps because of this it didn't seem strange to California that arrangements for the call were not made through regular political channels.

Instead of having the meeting framed through their senator or congressman, "General" J. Mabel Brown and Mrs. Louis Thompson made the arrangements themselves direct with the White House.

Finding the delegation of New Jerseyites on his program, it seemed to Coolidge that the occasion would be made more noteworthy if the Republican senator from that state was included in the party.

So a phone call from the White House asked Senator Edge to run up and join the president in shaking hands with his constituents.

Had the president been at all psychic, he could not but have noticed the constraint with which the ladies of the "army" greeted their senator.

However, he seemed to sense nothing wrong. And when the hand-shaking was over, the president, putting an arm affectionately across Edge's shoulders, told his visitors that he wished they'd pledge themselves to see that New Jersey soon sent down another Republican senator, "like Senator Edge."

Had the president kept himself up-to-date on the internal politics of New Jersey, he would have known at once that the "army" had intentionally maneuvered so it would owe Edge nothing in connection with its call on the president.

He would have known that this "Coolidge Army" in the last campaign fought just as hard to defeat Edge for re-election as it did to re-elect Coolidge.

Under the circumstances, for Coolidge to tell the ladies that the finest thing they could do would be to send him another senator, "like Senator Edge," made an already embarrassing situation still more so.

Coolidge's economy program is the one big barrier that prevents members of the House from achieving a measure of privacy approaching that already enjoyed by members of the Senate.

In providing office accommodations for members of Congress, Uncle Sam built two handsome white marble buildings of approximately equal size.

But whereas the Senate office building must house only 90 senators, the House building must provide quarters for no less than 435 members.

The result is that while each senator has a commodious suite of from three to four or five rooms, members of the House, except for chairmen of important committees, have only one.

A proposal to construct additional quarters within the present building finds unanimous favor among members.

But brought face to face with the administration demand for a cut in government expenses of some 200-odd millions next year, it seems certain that the next Congress, at least, will have to struggle along with "no more privacy than an elephant in a zoo."

HORTONVILLE FAIR IS REFUSED HELP BY COUNTY BOARD

Salary for Juvenile Judge Is Held Over Until Thursday Morning

The request of the Outagamie County Agricultural Fair association for an appropriation of $2,000 for the Hortonville fair was refused by the county board of supervisors Wednesday morning, the second day of the midwinter session. The resolution of Supervisor David Hodgins was defeated by a vote of 24 to 13, with four members absent at roll call.

Joseph Doerflinger, president of Kimberly who opened the debate in opposition to the resolution, said he was not in favor of supporting two fairs in the county. If the county contributed only to one fair, it would give greater aid to the one than by splitting the appropriations for two fairs, he said. The Seymour fair this year is receiving $5,000, while the annual appropriations for each fair in former years was less than half of that amount for each fair.

CHARGE INCONSISTENT

Supervisor P. H. Ryan, Second Ward, Appleton, declared that the spokesman of the Hortonville fair were inconsistent by asking for an appropriation at this time, when they had committed to ask for one at the time the budget was made last fall and as much as promised they would ask for no more support from the county.

"I think it is time for this board to have nerve enough to vote against such things," he said.

That Outagamie Co. is not wealthy enough to support two agricultural fairs was the statement of Supervisor John Tracy, Fourth Ward, Appleton. He said that the country board had at the time of the last appropriation a year and a half ago proposed that both fair associations confer on a plan of consolidation.

A resolution to increase the salary of the county judge was laid over to the Thursday morning session. The same resolution was introduced by the salary committee at the November session, but action was postponed until this meeting.

PAY JUVENILE JUDGE

The proposal calls for the payment of a salary of $12,500 to Judge Fred V. Heinemann, county judge, for his services as juvenile judge. It was stated that the statutes permit county boards to provide salary for that office, but that the board had never fixed a salary for it. Judge John Botenisek took the office of county judge at $2,500 a year, and the legislature upon the request of the county board raised it to $4,000. Because there was some doubt as to legality of increasing the judge's salary during his term of office, Judge Heinemann never drew more than $2,500 since the time he was appointed last summer. The resolution now before the board would authorize a salary of $1,500 for services as juvenile judge for the year 1925 and for the half year of 1924. The board has already increased the county judge's salary from $2,500 to $4,000, but the increase does not take effect until Jan. 1, 1926.

Supervisor Ryan of Appleton opposed the resolution. He said that Judge Heinemann knew what salary he was entitled to when he took it and also knew about the legal dispute. He compared the case with that of Judge Botenisek when he assumed office.

It was inconsistent, he maintained, for the board to increase the salary of the incumbent and at the same time carry on a suit against the estate of the former judge.

Supervisor Beck declared that it was assumed that in case the resolution carried, the suit against the Botenisek estate for return of illegal salary would be dropped. He then moved to lay the resolution over one day so as to give the board more time to consider it.

CONNELLEY WILL ATTEND MEETING OF ENGINEERS

R. M. Connelley, city engineer, and P. M. Charlesworth, Jr., Kaukauna city engineer, will attend the seventh annual convention of the engineering Society of Wisconsin which will be held in the engineering building of the university on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. City engineers from many cities will attend the conference, which is the biggest and most important meeting of its kind during the year, according to Mr. Connelley.

The feature of the convention will be the annual banquet in the dining room of Christ Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock Thursday evening when Justice M. E. Rosenberry will talk on Law and the Changing Order. The first days session, starting at 9 o'clock, will include an address of welcome by Gov. John J. Blaine, the presidents address by W. G. Kirchhoff and a talk by Charles A. Halbert, railroad commission engineer, on water power developments in Wisconsin. Officers will be elected at the closing session on Saturday forenoon.

HI-Y CLUB WILL ELECT AT MEETING TONIGHT

Election of officers for the next club year will take place at the regular meeting of the Hi-Y club at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The nominating committee, which was appointed at the last meeting, will make its report. Several other committees' reports will be read, plans will be made for the installation of the new officers at the next meeting and the regular 1924 study and discussion will conclude the meeting.

PROBERS DISCOVER LACK OF UNIFORM POLICY IN CAPITAL

Government Business Sadly Hampered by Departmental Jealousies

Washington, D. C.—If President Coolidge's commission on agricultural relief accomplishes nothing else, congressmen are saying it has done the country a signal service in pointing out that there are too many departments, bureaus and divisions in Washington.

They not only don't work together they say, but frequently work against one another, duplicate effort and personnel and accomplish less than they would if they were cut down anywhere from 33 1/3 to 50 per cent.

The farm commission's report, confined itself to conditions of this sort only as they affect agricultural welfare.

It is so obvious, however, that the criticisms apply equally to practically every other interest with which the government concerns itself that senators and representatives are "trying them on" dozens of other situations and finding them a "good fit" wherever the experiment is made.

"Inter-departmental jealousies," "dog-in-the-manger policies," "unnecessary, unwise duplication," "done deliberately," "a thoroughly reprehensible attitude" and "harmful to agriculture" are among the expressions freely used.

RESERVE BOARD BLAMED

The tariff reserve board is blamed for "lack of a unified credit system." The tariff commission is arraigned for "failure to function actively along the lines of its power and responsibilities."

The Interstate Commerce Commission is declared to have degenerated into "a court where it is almost impossible for the ordinary shipper to get a hearing."

Stimulated by this plain speaking, lawmakers who have interested themselves in aviation development are speaking of this as a field, among many others, in which the country is being held back by just such "dead ends" as the "farm investigators mention in their report."

On one side, the army air service contends that battleships have been rendered obsolete by the plane, charging that the navy has intentionally mishandled target experiments to conceal this fact.

AVIATION VIEWS CONFLICT

On the other side, the naval aeronautics bureau maintains that sea aviation is helpless without surface craft, accusing army airmen of misrepresenting such performances as the round-the-world flight to bolster up their case.

From the government aeronautical board and the national advisory committee on aviation come similarly conflicting versions.

At the same time, officials of the commerce department complain that commercial aviation is lagging because of squabbling among experts.

While the naval hydrographic office works to prove the influence of office works to prove the influence of climatic conditions, the weather bureau of the agriculture department pooh-poos such researches as a waste of time.

At the same time the Emergency Fleet Corporation is striving to turn the mercantile marine over to private ownership, the United States Shipping Board is doing its utmost to keep it intact and under government ownership.

These are just a few among the numerous conflicts in policy between government agencies.

Due to so much pulling in opposite directions, congressional critics say, the nation's business gets nowhere at all.

Spring Program

The county school superintendent's department is making plans for county commencement day and county field day contests and the town elimination contests that are to precede them. The dates, however, have not as yet been determined.

Track and other athletic contests will be conducted on county field day, while contests in academic subjects will be held on commencement day. Town elimination contests will be held for the various school districts in the field events, as well as spelling, arithmetic, penmanship, singing and declamatory work. The other contests include: Society minutes, map exercises, current booklets, sewing and manual training exhibits of which must be entered in the office of the county superintendent at least one week before commencement day.

OFFER MANY PRIZES
Satisfactory prizes will be awarded, including the Post-Crescent silver trophy for the highest scoring pupil and the Post-Crescent silver trophy to the highest scoring school. Pupils receiving the highest average in the spelling, arithmetic and penmanship contests will be chosen to represent Outagamie county at the state fair. Expenses will be paid by the state.

In the society minutes contest, club secretaries will be judged according to neatness and accuracy of the minutes. Entries in the map exercise contest are to consist of historical, geographical and industrial maps of North America. Clippings from newspapers and magazines on the outstanding current events are to be submitted in the Current Events booklet contest. The work is in connection with language, civics and accident prevention.

Entries for the sewing contest may be a plain towel, a kitchen apron, a sewing apron or a holder. A bird house, a specimen of rope splicing, a wooden toy or a collection of knots may be submitted for the manual training contest.

RAILROADS MIGHT SOFTEN DEMANDS

Railroads are trying to obtain adjustment of rates in the western trunk line territory by cooperation with shippers instead of the mandates of the interstate commerce commission, according to word received by the chamber of commerce. Appleton is one of the cities affected by the increases and the chamber of commerce therefore is watching the progress of the fight closely through its traffic adviser, R. G. Wort.

The latest step in the effort to settle informally was a conference in Chicago Feb. 12 at which the railroads met the committee which represents Appleton and other shippers. The meeting was requested by the railroad presidents after they realized that the shippers had resented the filing of the new rates with the interstate commerce commission after a promise that this would not be done.

A counter proposal to that of the railroads was presented by the shippers at the Chicago meeting but no action was taken as the presidents asked further time in which to go over the suggestions. Another conference will be called this week.

The nature of the demands made by the shippers has not been made public.

WOULD MAKE SMOKERS PAY PART OF STATE'S BILLS

Madison — Taxes on cigarettes as proposed in the recent bill introduced in the assembly by S. J. Gwidt of Rhinelander, would shift some of the taxation burdens now resting on general property, to the younger generation who get all of the benefits of taxation without paying any of the taxes, according to the author of the bill.

"Young men who habituate pool halls, and who enjoy all the advantages of government and convenience supported by taxation should shoulder some of the expense of these conveniences," Mr. Gwidt said. "My bill does not seek to restrict or stop the use of cigarettes, but merely attempts to spread the burden of taxation over a larger field."

The bill provides for a two cent tax on each package of twenty cigarettes, and would raise about $5,000, 000 annually, according to Mr. Gwidt.

"The man who smokes a package of cigarettes a day," he added, "would pay about $7.50 a year toward the support of the government."

Form Girls' Team

Plans are underway for organizing a girls' basketball team at Appleton Vocational school. Challenges will be issued to the girls teams of the city in the near future. Miss Christine Dorr, who is in charge of girls activities in the school, will coach the team.

AMERICA NOT DECADENT
The quest for Floyd Collins is over. The Kentucky cave explorer has been found, but too late. He had been dead at least 24 hours when Ed Brenner, a man of iron nerve and great strength, crawled headfirst down into the darkness of Sand Cave to bring succor. Although the country regrets that the heroic efforts to save Collins' life were in vain, there is one bright spot in this drama of the hills and caves that stands out to thrill the heart. And that is the self-sacrifice of the men who toiled desperately for days in a narrow shaft, with death on every hand, to reach the trapped explorer before he died. Their willingness to face death and work until exhaustion overcame them, the great response to the call for volunteers and money and the deep interest of the public, all of this is America's answer to those who cry that we are becoming a decadent nation, with thoughts only for money and pleasure, and none for the welfare of our fellowmen.

The work of H. T. Carmichael, the gaunt engineer, who directed the rescue squads, the bravery of Ed Brenner, Albert Marshall, A. Blevens, Simon Johns, John Stevens and others, who dug day after day in the dangerous shaft, and the daring of Homer Collins and John Gerald, all blend to form a brilliant chapter in the annals of American heroism, which should be an inspiration to every boy for years to come. Theirs was not the thought of personal gain or glory, but rather to serve and serve until their fellow citizen had been snatched from his tomb, whether dead or alive.

That they did not succeed in rescuing Collins alive is not their fault. They tried and tried, but nature put obstacles in their way that time and ingenuity alone could remove. They never gave up hope when rock slides threatened their lives and caused heart-breaking delays. On the contrary, they redoubled their efforts and toiled on "to get Collins." The opportunity to show their real mettle came to these men and they never faltered, even though they had every excuse for so doing had they wished. "Ninety-nine per cent pure gold," the term applied by Carmichael to his fellow workers is, we believe, a most apt description. However, we believe any other group of men, had they been placed in similar circumstances, would have essayed just as much. The nation is not decadent and will not be as long as the bravery and determination of the Carmichaels, Brenners, Blevens, Stevens, Johns and Marshalls' lives. It is this spirit that has conquered the forests and plains, the mountains and the rivers and builded America to its present greatness.

ELECTIONS ARE COSTLY EVERYWHERE
Those suspicious persons who believe that the campaign funds for election of American presidents, senators and congressmen can be explained only by wholesale corruption should read the recent parliamentary report upon the British election of December, 1923.
In that election 1,416 candidates contested 615 seats, in a tight little island which could be tucked into the corner of one of our larger states, with easy and inexpensive railroad access to large crowds of constituents. Yet the cost of that election at par of exchange was $4,771,000.
Naturally it is easier to track down corruption and to check up large contributions in as small an electoral area as

Great Britain than in the United States. Nobody, so far as report reveals, has questioned the honesty of the gifts which filled or the expenses which emptied this nearly five million dollar political war chest. Entirely legitimate disbursements accounted for the whole of it.
Among them were: Agents, $804,586; clerks, $813,058.36, printing and stationery, $2,120,957; public meetings, $284,450; committee rooms, $255,861; personal expenses, $239,991. The average candidate for parliament spent or had spent for him something over $4,200.
In other words an election costs money when vigorously and efficiently conducted, whether the appeal is made to London "limeys" or an American midwest gathering of farmers. Printed publicity alone in the British election cost more than two millions. If British candidates had been forced to canvass by rail, auto and buckboard the tremendous areas of American election districts the cost of such stump tours would have boosted the total still higher.

The fact is that an election campaign conducted in a big way is a public boon of the first magnitude. The British election of December, 1923, got out 21,283,085 voters, or 68.24 per cent of the possible electorate. The American campaign this summer and fall didn't do so well as that, but comparatively it made a good showing.

When the Republican national committee defended its raising of a $3,000,000 fund last year it pointed out that the selling of the Victory loan cost just short of $12,000,000, and that the selling of a candidate to the same people who bought the bonds is quite as complicated a task, forcing parties to employ the methods "of Wrigley, of Barnum, of Belasco" to get out the vote. Not only is this true, but it is also a political fact that the effect of one man's publicity is often another man's boost. The biggest spender does not always win by any means.

This British election of 1923, for instance, in which Stanley Baldwin and the Conservatives with most of the wealth on their side defended their power desperately and to the last ditch, resulted in the Labor and Socialist ministry of Ramsay MacDonald. The general effect of energetic and expensive campaigns is to rouse public thinking on the issues; not always to clinch and hogtie votes.

WHERE'S THE DISTINCTION?
A crazy little girl in Los Angeles, who says she murdered her sisters, explains that she wanted to see them suffer. "because it made me feel good."
That is abnormal. But have most normal persons much better reason than the contrary feeling for their correct conduct toward other people?
Normally, to see others suffer makes us "feel bad." So, to save that personal pain, we refrain from inflicting injury on them.

But when we do not see them—when, to save the cost of safety appliances, we condemn a statistical number of unknown and impersonal workmen to accident: when, by non-support relief measures, we assure much suffering from neglect—these things do not make us "feel bad."
Not being in our presence, they do not make us "feel" at all. Therefore, we do nothing.
To one in this stage of development—and facts like these demonstrate that their name is legion—is there anything better than selfish shrinking from the personal pain of sympathy involved in their occasional impulsive charities and kindnesses? Emotionally, they are sounder than this warped little creature in Los Angeles. But morally are they on any different plane?

By HAL COCHRAN
TELLING TIME.
At some time or other, each sister and brother must learn how to tell the right time. That's a thing, as we know, that has always been so. Thus it's reason enough for a rhyme.
A clock, on the mantel, is ticking away, as the hours and minutes sail by. Then Johnny comes in from his out-of-doors play and he gives the old time piece his eye.
"Let's see," says the youngster, "the big hand's at seven. And then he will pause for a spell. The little hand's pointing a bit before eleven. I wonder what time that should be!"
Then mother comes in and she starts to explain. It's surely a nerve-racking task. While talking she wishes that Johnny'd refrain from all of the questions he'll ask.
This program goes on by the day by the week and finally the child's solved the lot of various times that the hands and face speak. So the folks have to buy him a watch.

THE BURDENSOME HEFT OF 'EM.
This has been no meek winter, we must admit. As early as the middle of January the weather man informed us that all previous records had been broken in the season's snowfall. And so I am feeling pleased, for this winter I didn't change to heavies at all until after the middle of January—and I've been feeling meaner than ever since I went and did it. To tell the truth, I don't know why I made the change, except that I had some suits of perfectly good wool and silk stuff, with all the buttons on and everything, and in an absent minded and buttonless moment I conceived the notion that it was a shame not to use the garments at all any more, and thus I sacrificed comfort, if not hygiene, to the impulse of economy. What a waste! A difference a few buttons make! Even the most practical hygienist is likely to behave strangely when he gets his unmentionables back from the laundry and discovers that he has lost his last button.

Time was when I preached the desirability of light weight all wool or wool and silk, or at least an appreciable percentage of wool underwear for the average person, but never have I placed a single straw in the way of a person who sought to struggle through the winter in his or her pretense of undies, nor have I ever failed to support loyalty and vigorously and resolutely my position to discard the heavies and resume the comfortable summer time regalia along about the second of April.
But I am now serving public notice to all concerned that I am not promulgating the heavy underwear principle any more. Henceforth I shall base my position squarely upon the principle of personal comfort—conceding without argument that the average person knows enough to recognize when he is comfortable. On that basis I maintain that we hygienists should face the facts even when the facts seem to be at variance with our theories, and here is a fact: There is nothing in the health records to indicate that the considerable number of the amazing sex who achieve slenderness even at the cost of nakedness suffer any injury to health by reason of their innocence of any inner armor worthy of the name.

If I were out earning my living honestly perhaps this heavy stuff would be comfortable enough. But being one of the class that does no honest work, I find the heft of 'em positively depressing and after tonight some poor but honest man will receive an outfit of like new undies which should come in useful for mops, polishing the car or stopping holes in the back windows.

So called "fleece lined" underwear in my judgment, is the most unhygienic kind ever invented. Very heavy or thick or thick cotton underwear comes second in the undesirable list. Flannels, that is, tightly woven woolen goods, come third.

Any underwear which is extra thick or doubled over any part of the body is unhygienic, not because it is warm, but because it cools the body in spots.
Loosely knitted textures, to permit free exaporation of sweat through the holes, are desirable in underwear at any season. Silk is all right from the hygienic viewpoint, wool and silk is too, wool and cotton, is too, or pure cotton. Linen is all right for mild weather, or climate where light material suffices; if heavier underwear is desirable, linen is unsuitable.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Carriage Exercise.
Do you consider driving an automobile practically all day sufficient exercise for a man of hearty appetite? (Mrs. L. G.)
Answer.—No. There is very little exercise obtained that way, though a lot of people like to believe that driving a car is exercise of a sort.
Typhoid Is Tough.
Please suggest treatment for the hair of a typhoid convalescent. My hair did not get to be clipped, but it is falling out dreadfully. (G. E. K.)
Answer.—The hair usually falls out after typhoid fever. In the course of a year, if no setback occurs, it generally comes in again regardless of treatment. Send stamped self addressed envelope for advice about the care of the hair.

Dollar day is a good thing, but it can be carried to extremes. For instance, a man might call up the city hall and ask for a reduction of a dollar from his tax bill.
John Hantschel, the imitable county clerk, celebrates a dollar day every day, but so far few marriageable couples have taken advantage of the standing offer. Perhaps if he advertised two licenses for a dollar, trade might pick up. There may be a few first class Mohammedans in this town.

Linotype Mac says he speaks for all Scotchmen when he says dollar day doesn't mean anything to them. If it were 98-cent day, the downtown section would look like a regular Bobby Burns reunion.

"When overcoats and suits can be bought on dollar day, as the ads say, it buys up our hopes for the day when we can buy a Ford at Woolworth's," says Lemuel.

"Sunny world. Half of it worries about the price it has to pay and the other half worries because it hasn't the price to pay."

Another good suggestion for swelling trade is holding a 100-cents-for-a-dollar-day.

World Saved From Ruin
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington, D. C.—Americans as well as all others of the English speaking world have, since earliest childhood and in many generations, heard the nursery rhyme warning that "London Bridge is falling down." Something more important now actually is in danger of falling down. It is St. Paul cathedral.

The 200-year old structure, regarded by many as second only to St. Peter's at Rome in splendor, dominates the city of London. For every section its dome, which rises 353 feet in the air above the smoke and fog of the world's metropolis, may be seen. On approaching London from the surrounding country the vast dome of St. Paul's is the first object described. It is this world-famous dome which is said to be in danger of collapse.
The dean and chapter of St. Paul's have issued an appeal, addressed especially to Englishmen but specifically including the people of the whole world, asking for voluntary donations to undertake extensive repairs to save the fabric of the cathedral. It was not possible in advance to determine the precise amount needed for the work, but it was estimated that between half and three-quarters of a million dollars would suffice.

KING FIRST GIVER
The appeal was made early in January. The first day brought nearly $75,000 in contributions. The list was headed by the king who contributed $500, then followed the Queen with $250, then the queen mother, Alexandra, with a like amount, and the Prince of Wales with a similar sum. The list of the first donors included names known around the world. It included not only the greatest business concerns such as the Bank of England, the Company of Merchants and similar organizations, but donors of sums as small as sixpence—clerks, newsboys and old ladies.
A contribution of special interest to Americans was that of "The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England Trading Into Hudson's Bay." More commonly known as the Hudson's Bay Company, this great concern, in an accompanying letter, explained its special interest in the cathedral as due to the fact that Sir Christopher Wren, its architect, was at one time a member of the board of directors of the company, assisting in the conduct of its trading enterprises in America.

A church has stood on the site of St. Paul's since long before the Norman conquest—that is, for more than a thousand years. Saxon remains have been found in excavations made in connection with later work. What is known as Old St. Paul's—a cathedral of definitely known structure of which plans and pictures still are extant—was begun in 1083 by William the Conqueror. It was added to and repaired from time to time and in 1600 Sir Christopher Wren was commissioned by King James to make plans for a general enlargement and remodeling.

ACTUALLY THREE DOMES
The dome—towering above the entire city—is the great feature of the cathedral. It consists actually of three domes, one within another. This was necessary for structural reasons. The inner dome is the one seen by the worshiper from within. Then there is a second dome, never seen by the public, which springs aloft to support the great 800-ton lantern, globe and cross crowning the whole structure. From which the spectator beholds the third or external dome.
The present difficulty arises from the ponderous weight of this tremendous mass reared so loftily. The whole is supported upon eight piers or columns. These support a weight of forty thousand tons. For more than two hundred years this mass has stood, held by Wren's engineering genius and the masonry and timbers he assembled. At length signs of failure have appeared.

WHENCE THE WARNING CAME
The manner in which the emergency has been called to public attention is of interest. Every large city has building inspectors charged with the duty of ascertaining the safety of buildings. One is more apt to think of such matters in connection with factories, theatres or such commercial establishments, and not in respect to world-famed shrines like St. Paul's. Nevertheless the dean and chapter of St. Paul's recently were notified formally that the building of which they had charge—the vast cathedral itself—was showing signs of violating the dangerous structures act.

Then came the appeal. The fund already has been largely oversubscribed and contributions still are coming in from all corners of the world. Not only are citizens and subjects of many other countries sending contributions but even those of other religions—many being persons who never have been to London nor ever expect to go there.

The repair work has been begun. The chief strain and weakness has been located in the eight mammoth piers. These were constructed with an outer shell of masonry and filled with rubble, that is, loose, stone and gravel. Chinks have opened between the fragments with the result that only the outer shell now is giving actual support. The method of repair is curious. It would be an unheard of task to dismantle the 40,000-ton-dome and rebuild the piers, so holes are being drilled into the stone casing at frequent intervals and grout or liquid cement is being forced in under pressure so as to fill every space. As this hardens, the whole mass will become solid.

The Wesleyan church of England has decided that women can be ordained as ministers.

Foam and cloth recently have been made by chemists from common swamp cattails.

Unusual People
SAVES CITY FROM PLAGUE

When a yellow fever case struck Houston, Tex., J. G. Dudley Jr., chief of the city's mosquito control forces, labored with his squad of men. Deadly gases were poured into the "flap" house where the case was discovered, every mosquito breeding den was cleaned out, until not one little flying pest remained to carry the dread germs. Dudley's quick work saved Houston from what might have been a serious epidemic, federal officials said.

LABOR GREATEST SUFFERER
Editor, Post-Crescent.—From an editorial in the Appleton Post-Crescent of February 14th, 1925, I have just read the following:
"Senator Morris of Milwaukee announces that he will introduce in the legislature a bill providing for a 25 per cent reduction in income taxes of all persons firms and corporations in Wisconsin, commencing with the payment for the year 1924, that is, on the returns to be made this year."
It seems by this that some of Wisconsin's legislators are beginning to understand the effect that our income taxes have on the prosperity of Wisconsin. I feel that such a 25 per cent reduction should pass without dissenting vote.
Perhaps the few following lines will help some to reason upon such subjects:
High wages create high commodities. High taxes, especially graduated income taxes create cheaper labor and higher commodities in most, if not in all lines of manufacture. For a state surrounded by other states that have no income taxes to pay, and therefore, to compete with such other states, they must lessen expenses or move out of the state. As labor is generally their greatest expense, it is the one most sure to suffer by such a tax. Could the manufacturer lessen his expense to the amount of his income tax, he could then meet competition from other states, but such a procedure is next to impossible and would cause strikes and other trouble.
One can see from the above that the income tax must lessen the wages of workers in the industrial plants, throw many out of work, increase the price of commodities, and in the end the consumer pays the tax and the farmers are the great consumers, so why increase their burdens?
The last way to remedy the mistakes our Socialistic lawmakers have enacted in the past, is to teach our common people, as well as lawmakers, the inevitable effect of such unjust unreasonable, and foolish laws, and our voters will then elect men to office who will soon repeal them.

Tells Club To Put Soul In Business

Dr. J. A. Holmes Addresses Business Women's Club in Place of Dr. D. O. Kinsman

More of the human element is needed in business, today, said Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of the First Methodist church, who spoke at the monthly supper of Appleton Business and Professional Women's club at Appleton Women's club Tuesday evening in place of Dr. D. O. Kinsman, who was ill.

The speaker's subject was "The Soul in Business." He told of many incidents where a slogan such as this topic was used in the advertising of commercial concerns, but that too often it meant nothing in actual practice. He illustrated by mentioning a hotel that advertised its "soul" yet it was more lonely than a hut in the mountains.

There is not enough of the human touch in business nowadays, said Dr. Holmes. Those who would succeed must put themselves into their business or their work. They must acquire that courtesy which will make transactions human. This can be done if people only will try to put themselves in the other fellow's place.

Attendance at the supper totaled about 70, with many present who did not attend the first supper last month. About 25 more became members, making the charter roll about 75 to date.

F. N. Belanger, district traffic supervisor of Wisconsin Telephone company, will be the speaker at the next supper on March 17. Each member was given a card on which suggestions for future programs or speakers are to be written.

Baer Camp Has Civil War Vets In Attendance

Veterans of the Civil War attended their first regular meeting at the army Tuesday evening as honorary members of Charles O. Baer camp United Spanish War Veterans. They were voted in as life members at a dinner given a week ago and were given their badges and certificates at that time.

Several of the veterans gave talks in which they thanked the succeeding generation of soldiers for giving them this consideration. They offered the cooperation of the Grand Army of the Republic in anything the camp desires to undertake.

Automobiles provided by members of Baer camp conveyed the aged men to the army from their homes and this plan probably will be followed at each meeting.

The camp adopted a vote of thanks to Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of First Methodist church, for his Lincoln address at the last meeting and also to Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bannister and their assistants for putting on a Lincoln drama.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Opportunity's Knock Advice

The advice crop is always large, but the amount of it consumed is small. The trouble with most advice is that someone else gives it.

It is a good rule to listen to advice whenever it is offered, for in this way you keep your friends. But accept it only when it appeals to the best that's in you.

Practice on yourself what you preach to the other fellow and both you and he will profit thereby.

POSTAL WORKERS ASK COOPERATION OF THEIR PATRONS

Rusted and Broken Mailboxes
Are Called Menace to Letter Carriers

Kaukauna—The monthly meeting of the post office employees was held Monday evening in the post office. It was the second meeting of the group which organized about six weeks ago. The group adopted "Postal Workers Association" as the name of the organization and decided to meet the third Monday of each month.

Post office matters in general were discussed. At the request of the carriers, A. R. Mill, postmaster, has called attention that many of the mail boxes, which were put up when mail carrier service began here, have become so rusted and broken that they are a menace to the carriers. Many of the mailboxes have jagged edges which are dangerous; others have the paper broken off or bent or are otherwise unfitted for the work for which they are intended. Mr. Mill has asked that patrons look after their mail boxes and change them if necessary.

Whenever possible the boxes are to be put on the right side of entrances as the mail carrier handles his mail with his right hand and everything which can be done to make his work easier will tend to promote better service.

The matter of keeping sidewalks or approaches to mail boxes free from mud also was brought up. Carriers are not required to wade in mud to maintain postal service.

More extensive use of the collection boxes on street corners was recommended. Mail carriers do not have to stop at a house and pick up mail and will do it only as a favor when they have to stop at that house anyway to deposit mail.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Two south side clubs joined in a surprise party Monday evening in honor of Miss Viola Wolf at her home, 411 Elmwood. About 20 members of the G. G. G. and Five Hundred clubs were present. Prizes at five hundred were won by Miss Martha Van Able and Miss Helen Ryan.

St. Ann Court No. 228, Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, held a character and double spoon party Tuesday evening following the regular business meeting in north side Forester hall. The prize for the best costume was won by Miss Cecile Brown. Mrs. Peter Metz won honors for having the most ornate costume. The spoons were won by Mrs. Frank Nole and Mrs. John Van Dyke. About 75 members were present.

H. S. PUPILS BURY ERRORS OF GRAMMAR IN GRAVEYARD

Kaukauna—A "good English" project of more than passing interest has been worked out by pupils of the sixth grade in Park school under the supervision of Miss Lottie Kuder. The project consists of a facsimile of an old English chapel and graveyard built on a sand table in the school room. The chapel is fashioned of logs. A gravel path leads from it into a graveyard where several mounds representing graves have been heaped up.

Each mound represents an error in English and a tombstone at the head of each tells what error is buried there. The children add new errors to the graveyard as they appear. The whole table is covered with branches which represent trees. Some of the errors already "at rest" are "ain't," "I dunno," "gimme," "Seein'," "Paul, he," and "I can't."

KAUKAUNA FORTY-FIVERS SEEKING STATE TITLE

Kaukauna—A group of card players in Kaukauna, after having played practically every "Forty-Five" player in this vicinity, are claiming the state championship and are angling with a championship match with Racine or Kenosha champs, where "Forty-five" is a popular game. The local group is composed of Pat Rohan, Ed Powers and Lawrence Weiss. The men have been playing matches all winter with teams in this section of the valley and have not yet lost a game. It is understood the men will attempt to arrange a match or series of matches with the southern experts.

The discussions which most interested the local group were relative to apprenticeship and trade training. Among those who attended the conference were Miss Elizabeth Patterson, academic department; Sam C. Anderson, mechanical department and A. T. Hudson, director.

ORDINANCE FOR THREE NEW WARDS BEFORE COUNCIL

Objection Is Raised to Move
Because of Expense—Several Ask Engineer's Job

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The new ordinance which has been drafted for the division of three of the city's wards, the First, Third and Fourth, was presented to the city council Tuesday evening, at its bi-monthly meeting in the city hall. The council directed that the ordinance be published, as required, in the official city paper, after which it will be brought up again for action.

The new First ward will consist of that portion of the city between the Wolf river and Washington-st. and between Sixth and Division-sts. The new ward created by the division will be known as the Seventh ward, and would consist of all land lying south of the above boundaries, to the city limits.

The new Third ward will consist of that part of the city east of Division-st. and north of Washington-st. and north of Washington-st. to the city limits. The new ward created here, which will be known as the Eighth ward, will consist of that portion south of the above boundaries to the city limits.

DEFINE NEW LINES
The new Fourth ward will lie north of Washington-st. and west of Smith-st. to the city limits. The new one, the Sixth ward, will be south of the Fourth ward, to the city limits.

This division of the three wards will create three new wards, the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth, and will mean three additional aldermen, three new supervisors, and three new school commissioners in the city.

There have been several objections raised in the city against the above division. These are based chiefly on the grounds that the creation of three new aldermen would greatly increase expenses in the city, as pressure would be brought to bear upon the new aldermen by members of their wards for a great variety and list of new improvements in this ward. They suggest, or propose instead, the creation of an alderman from each of the present wards, thereby making a total of 10, this increase in aldermen to take the place of the division of wards.

100 RESERVATIONS FOR CIVIC CLUB'S SUPPER

Kaukauna—More than 100 reservations have been made for the supper of the Advancement Association Thursday evening in Elk hall when members of the county board, county and city officials will be guests of the club. All members of the Advancement association or those who are interested in community welfare are invited to attend the supper. Short entertainment will be provided by talent which will entertain in the evening in the fair building.

THRIFTY STUDENTS PUT $210 IN SCHOOL BANK

Kaukauna—The high school maintained its thrift campaign this week and increased its deposits. A total of $210.54 was collected which represented the saving of 80 per cent of the students. There were only nine 100 per cent classes as compared with 10 of last week. The thrift banner was won this week by the mechanical drawing II class for the first time this term. On account of the remote location of the room, the banner is being displayed on the bulletin board in the lower corridor.

The mechanical drawing class contributed $25.45 to the fund. The modern history class under Miss Florence Bounds, which also secured 100 per cent, was close second with $23.78.

GAS IN STOMACH HURTS THE HEART

Thousands of Cases of Heart Failure
Are Caused by Acute Indigestion, Says Medical Writer

Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable but some day it may prove fatal!

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart, you may be sure that the acid condition of your stomach is producing a GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly banish gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

Any good druggist can supply Bisurated Magnesia, in powder, tablet form, at very small cost—but be sure you get BISURATED Magnesia—recommended by Doctors and Druggists throughout the civilized world for more than 13 years.

ASK MORE STATE AID FOR RURAL NORMAL SCHOOL

BOARD HAS ONLY THREE DAYS FOR WINTER SESSION

Supervisors Work Fast to Transact County Business in Short Time

With but three days allowed the board for winding up the business of the year, the county board of supervisors at its opening session Tuesday afternoon committed itself to a busy program with the possibility of an afternoon session or two in which to complete it.

Assignments were made to the standing committees with instructions from George F. Fiedler, county chairman, to complete their work early. All members but one, Supervisor John W. McHugh of Freedom, were present. After disposing of a number of matters Tuesday afternoon, the board adjourned to 9:30 Wednesday morning.

A request from E. S. McNutt, president, and Mrs. William Klein, secretary of the Outagamie County Agricultural Fair association, for an appropriation for the Hortonville fair was followed by a resolution by Supervisor David Hodgins for an appropriation of $2,000. No provision was made by the county board at the budget meeting in November for the county aid for the fair and this was the first time the board had ever committed to do so, it was pointed out. Under the rules, the resolution was laid over one day.

WANT MORE AID
Maintaining that the state aid for the county training school no longer is sufficient and inequitable, Supervisor John Tracy, Fourth ward, Appleton, moved to have the district attorney draw up a resolution petitioning the assemblymen and state senator of this district for remedial legislation to that effect.

Mr. Tracy pointed out that the expense of maintaining the institution has advanced through the years of operation and with the increase in salaries for instructors of the Outagamie Rural Normal school, Appleton which employs no graduates of the institution is being taxed unjustly for its support, he asserted. A greater amount of state aid would decrease the amount of the county appropriation, it was held.

Two communications were received from Assemblyman Fred A. A. Miller, now at Madison. Mr. Miller declared that the request of the county board for state legislation to permit the town of Maine to tax a parcel of land in that town owned by the city of Oshkosh was difficult to satisfy. He said he took the matter up with the tax commission and was informed that such legislation would be difficult owing to the fact that it would affect the entire state, as municipalities now cannot be taxed for land they own.

The other communication from the assemblyman was in reply to the request of the county board for an increase of state aid from $5 to $7 per capita for county sanatoria. He said that only $5 per capita was granted by the state last year because no money was available. It is intended to increase the amount to $7 this year, he informed the board.

The first communication was referred by Chairman Fiedler to the committee on illegal taxes, the second was received and placed on file.

INVITED TO KAUKAUNA
Attorney F. W. Grogan, speaking for the Kaukauna Advancement association, invited the members to the Kaukauna Midwinter fair which occurs in Kaukauna this week and also to a dinner in the Elk hall at Kaukauna at 6:30 Thursday evening.

The board received a letter of appreciation from the mayor and city council of Kaukauna thanking the county for an appropriation of $17,000 for paving Dodge street of that city.

Communications from county boards of Green, Brown and Rock-cro were read by John Hantschel, county clerk, and ordered filed. Green-co advocated plan of paying taxes in semi-annual installments and petitioned the legislature for such a law. Brown-co board favored an amendment to the primary election law that would permit voters to vote a split ballot of Green, Brown and Rock-cro board of supervisors urged a law prohibiting telephone and electric companies from destroying trees on public highways for their lines without first obtaining permission from the owners of the abutting property owners and the town officials.

Well, Roth and Irving, a Clinch mill firm, urged the board of supervisors to call in a highway bond issue and resell bonds to take advantage of the favorable market and net the county a saving. The communication was referred to the committee on finances.

The annual auditors' report also was referred to the same committee, and various petitions for tax rebate on illegal taxes were referred to the committee on illegal taxes.

Stanley A. Staidl attended the board session for the first time in his capacity assistant district attorney. John A. Tonsdorf, district attorney, was prosecuting a criminal case in municipal court at the time.

BUILDING TRADES WERE ACTIVE IN JANUARY

Building activity continues at a very good rate, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. January building included about seven-eighths of the total construction of the country amounted to $296,473,000. This was a decrease of only 1 per cent from January of last year, which had the highest January building volume on record. There was also last month a decrease of 10 per cent from December 1924.

Contemplated new work reported in January amounted to $636,153,300. This was very large in proportion to the amount of work started (contracts awarded) but it was 5 per cent less than the amount reported in January of last year. The volume of newly planned work reported is usually very high in January.

Building contracts awarded during January in the Central West (Ill., Ind., Iowa, Mo., Wis., Minn., Mich., N. Dak., S. Dak., Okla., Neb., and Nebraska) amounted to $55,483,100. The decrease from December was 27 per cent from the previous January, 17 per cent.

Last month's record included: $24,784,200, or 45 per cent of all construction, or residential buildings; $14,818,700, or 27 per cent for commercial buildings; $5,330,300, or 10 per cent for public works and utilities; $3,707,000 or 7 per cent for industrial buildings; and $2,761,100, or 5 per cent, or educational buildings.

Contemplated new work reported for this district in January amounted to $175,932,200, an increase of 2 per cent over the amount reported in the corresponding month of last year.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT TO DO?

Daily in our contact with men and women we come across little unexpected problems of conduct. We must be able to meet these as they arise. Nothing is more embarrassing than uncertainty along these lines.

It is therefore highly important that we know the correct form and established method of polite society so that we will not be considered rude and unrefined.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally By Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick, rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Mitchell Braves Court Martial To Take Chance

BY HARRY B. HUNT
Washington — Brig. Gen. "Billy" Mitchell is always ready to "take a chance."

That quality, perhaps more than any other was responsible for his rapid promotion in the army air service. Everything man has accomplished in the air has been accomplished by the fellow willing to "take a chance." And to these accomplishments Mitchell has contributed no little.

The situation in which Mitchell now finds himself embroiled, with court martial, demotion or dismissal from his post as assistant chief of the army air service openly blighted, is the direct result of his willingness to "take a chance" to advance the cause of aviation.

From Mitchell's viewpoint the development of aviation as an invaluable arm of America's military defenses is handicapped and hampered by being under the jurisdiction of old-time army and navy officers who went through West Point and Annapolis when the idea of "flying machines" was still a joke.

These men were taught that the ground army and the capital ship navy constituted the main army of national defense, and that everything else must be made subordinate.

Convinced in his own mind that America's supremacy in the air, in a military way, can only be brought about by the creation of an air force independent of either army or navy, Mitchell has taken the only course open to him by which to get national attention for his proposal. As an officer in a subordinate branch of the army, whatever recommendations or arguments he might make to his superiors in the service could easily be—and he says were—suppressed.

But his testimony before the special committee of Congress investigating aircraft conditions was an open record.

There and only there lay his opportunity for a full public statement of his views. He knew the danger to himself such a course would invite, but—

"He took a chance."

Men have been shot at sunrise for saying less damaging things about the army and navy than Mitchell said. Had he said them within the confines of the war and navy building, he would have been brought before a drum-head court martial forthwith.

But, said before a congressional committee, in the presence of the public and newspaper representatives, the hands of his military superiors were, temporarily at least, stayed.

If Mitchell can make his case stick with the committee and the public, drastic action against him will still be frustrated. If he fails in this, the dashing air fighter will find himself and his independent air service proposal brought down in flames—another object lesson to the orthodox who feel inclined to "take a chance."

60 HIGH SCHOOLS DEBATE FRIDAY IN LAWRENCE LEAGUE

First Round Will Eliminate Part of Teams in State Forensic Cup Contest

With Lawrence college as the headquarters of the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Debate League, more than 60 high schools throughout the state will meet in formal debates Friday night, Feb. 20. The question will be: Resolved, that capital punishment should be abolished throughout the United States.

The triangle system will be used, the losers in each group of three being finally eliminated and the winner of the state's championship determined. Friday night's contest will be the first round of the elimination.

A silver loving cup is offered to the school which wins each year, and permanent possession may be obtained by three consecutive victories. Last year Washington high school in Milwaukee won the cup and is now holding it until the winner is decided for this year.

The school groupings for the first round are:

Sturgeon Bay, Algoma, Kewaunee, Neenah, Two Rivers, Brillion, Port Atkinson, Edgerton, Cambridge, Shawano, Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls, Menomonie, Wausau, Marshfield, Stevens Point, Ellsworth, River Falls, Hammond.

GREEN WILL BE KEY COLOR FOR DANCE BY FRESHMEN

Preparations for the first class dance of the year are under way by the college freshmen. The "Frosh Frolic" will take place Friday night, Feb. 21 in Elk hall.

Two committees have been appointed by Bruce MacIntis, of Milwaukee, class president. The general committee consists of three Appleton students, Robert J. Pugh, Dorothy Adair, and Margaret Brill. They will have charge of the decorations, refreshments, floor, etc. The music committee is headed by George Neider, Elgin, Ill.

Novel effects in green probably will be the keynote of the decorations as planned by the committee.

Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, registerable as to principal only.

THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Trustee

History: The business of the Richmond Cedar Works has been in successful operation since 1863. The Company, including subsidiaries, with its extensive timber lands owned in fee (over one billion feet of timber), fleet of barges and tugs, and 30-mile railroad, presents a complete unit for the economical production and sale of wood products. From a small original investment it has grown steadily until today it is the largest manufacturer in the world of woodware. Its products consist of ice cream making tubs, ice cream freezers, washing machines, pulps, tubs, clothespins, etc. Through subsidiaries it is also the largest manufacturer in the world of red cedar pencil slats, and is the largest producer in the United States of built up veneers. The established policy of accumulating virgin timber now assures its lumber mill and woodware factory of sufficient raw material to run continuously for over thirty years.

Plants: The Richmond Cedar Works' main plant covering 11 acres is located at Richmond, Virginia, where finished articles of woodware are manufactured for the trade. At Camden, Virginia, near Norfolk, it owns and operates an additional plant for cutting lumber not required in the manufacture of its own products. This plant is located on tidewater and is supplied by the Company's own barges and controlled railroads from its timber holdings in North Carolina and Virginia. Veneers for boxes are manufactured by two subsidiaries, The White Veneer Co., Inc., at Plymouth, N. C., and the National Veneer Co., Inc., at Eden, N. C. At Lebanon and Murfreesboro, Tenn., the Gulf Red Cedar Co., Inc., a subsidiary, manufactures pencil slats. The entire capital stocks of these subsidiaries are owned by the Richmond Cedar Works.

Timber: The Company including its subsidiaries, owns approximately 215,000 acres of timber land in fee simple with an estimated 1,100,000,000 feet of merchantable timber standing thereon. This timber is pine (40%), gum (28%), white cedar (19%), cypress (6%) other (7%). The white cedar (lump) owned by the Company represents over sixty per cent (60%) of the entire stand in this country.

Security: These bonds are direct obligations of the Richmond Cedar Works secured by a closed first mortgage on over 187,000 acres of timber lands, valued at $9,900,000, and on manufacturing plants at Richmond and Camden appraised in excess of $1,500,000. In addition the bonds are secured by the pledge of the entire outstanding capital stocks of certain subsidiaries. Timber lands owned by these subsidiary companies are valued at $1,000,000 and their plants at over $950,000. No mortgage or lien can be placed on the properties of these subsidiaries except under restrictions of the trust indenture.

Earnings: Net income after maintenance and all taxes, applicable to interest and depreciation for the four and one-half years ended June 30, 1924, averaged $541,495 or 3.70 times maximum annual interest charges on this issue; deducting depreciation, the average for the same period was $429,688, or approximately 3 times maximum annual interest charges. The Company has made a profit in every year for over thirty years.

Sinking Fund: A sinking fund provided in the trust indenture is based on the amount of timber cut or removed from the mortgaged property and under certain conditions, on a percentage of the annual net earnings of the Company. Sinking fund moneys are to be used for the retirement of bonds either by purchase or by call by lot under the terms of the mortgage. It is estimated that the sinking fund will retire the entire issue before maturity.

We Think of Our Job as a Service

THE working man of today, going to work in his automobile, has more comforts and conveniences, than had the old-time emperors, compelled to slow locomotion in horse-drawn vehicles.

We are so accustomed to this state of affairs that we take it for granted. But this amazing development of modern times didn't just happen. It was achieved.

It was achieved in most part by men who thought of their job as a service—by men who were so obsessed by the idea of achievement—of progress—that they could not help but concentrate all the forces of their mind on wresting new secrets from Nature—creating new wealth—inventing new ways of doing things, or new methods of doing old things better.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been and is an important factor in bringing about the universal employment of the motor car, thus adding to the business efficiency, bettering the health, and increasing the contentment of all. The enterprise and thrift of this Company, energized by the earnest desire to serve, has brought petroleum products within the reach of everyone.

It was thinking of the job, rather than the pay; of the service, rather than the profit—which inspired members of this organization to develop that long list of advanced refining and marketing methods which have exerted such a profound influence upon the petroleum industry. It was planning for service to millions, which led to the establishment of gasoline storage depots, tank wagon routes, and service stations—throughout the Middle West.

If you would see this ideal of service in operation, note when you drive into a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service station the willingness, zeal and efficiency of the man who fills your gasoline tank or drains your crankcase. That man is not "on show". He is just one of thousands who have acquired the habit of thinking of his job as a service.

MENASHA ATTORNEY HAS RICH MUSEUM OF INDIAN RELICS

M. M. Schoetz Has Been Collecting Curios for Half a Century

Menasha—Attorney M. M. Schoetz possesses not only one of the most interesting collections of Indian relics to be found in this part of the state but has also a collection of minerals assembled from all parts of the United States. His library contains valuable books not found in the average public library and his law library compares favorably with the best.

Two rooms of his home on Broad street are devoted exclusively to his collections and libraries. His Indian relics were picked up during his travels about the state and some of the most interesting ones were found in the river valley. After completing his law studies Mr. Schoetz was associated for a time with the law firm of Collins and Pierce of Appleton and his offices at the time were located over Bell's drugstore on College street. It was while driving about the country in the practice of his profession that he found many of his relics.

Copper and flint arrowheads of all sizes and descriptions are included in his collection. Stones used in grinding grain, battleaxes and a pipe of peace hewn from Minnesota sandstone are among the larger relics. Owing to the fact he was at one time interested in mining made it possible for him to secure many specimens of ore not valuable to the average person.

Many of his law books are almost priceless because of their age and scarcity. The acquiring of his libraries covered a period of nearly half a century. He made a practice of purchasing books only as he needed them.

Six Things a tooth paste should do

Fight acids with magnesia. Combat germ attacks with the right antiseptics. Protect the gums with iodine. Cleanse with a fruit-oil cleanser. Beautify with polishers. Sweeten the breath with deodorants. Phillips' Dental Magnesia does all.

All Acids Die

When you apply magnesia to the teeth

Remember this: Food fermentation creates acid around and between the teeth. Acid causes tooth decay.

Almost everybody suffers tooth troubles if he fails to fight that acid. But a touch of magnesia makes that acid harmless.

Magnesia that stays

We are the makers of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, prescribed by dentists for 50 years. But it washes away.

So we now make a tooth paste called Phillips' Dental Magnesia. There the magnesia is in concentrated form, to penetrate between the teeth and stay.

Here is magnesia in ideal form to night and day fight acid foes of teeth. Nobody who knows its benefits will ever go without it.

All helps combined

Magnesia is the supreme help, but others are needed. So we have adopted the "Formula of 1924." Four great organizations combined to create it, to meet every modern requirement. It is, we consider, the greatest dentifrice formula science has yet created.

It embodies 16 ingredients. There are four antiseptics, to combat the germs which breed by millions around the teeth. There is iodine, to protect the gums. A fruit-oil cleanser to clean. Two polishers, both safe and efficient, to whiten and beautify teeth. And Deodorants to create and maintain a sweeter, purer breath.

With every use of Phillips' Dental Magnesia you apply all these helps. And no other tooth paste in existence does that.

It is folly to delay

These facts give some idea of what this new tooth paste means. But you will be amazed by the pleasant and complete results. You have never used a tooth paste which does one-tenth as much.

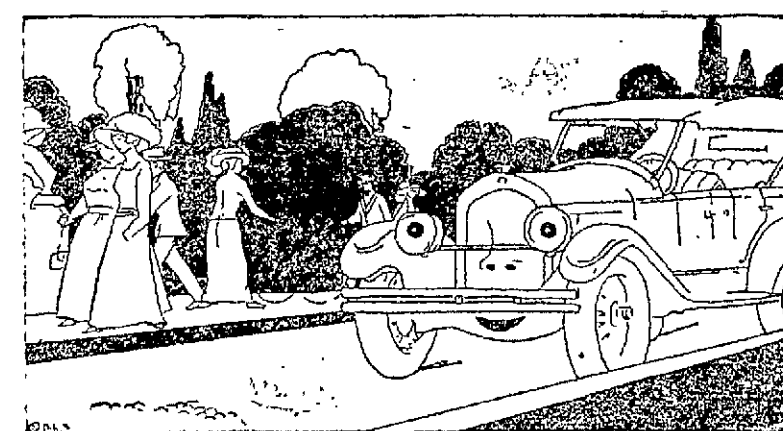

Here you fight acid and germs, you fight dingy coats, you fight all the foes of teeth. When you learn what this means you will never again brush teeth in any old way.

Ask your druggist for Phillips' Dental Magnesia and start this new way tonight.

Based on Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—the super-magnesia, standard for 50 years with dentists and physicians. At all drug stores.

THOUGHTS OF A THANKFUL AUTO—

"Maybe I'm not glad to get away from that bird who's been running me around for the last year—he ought to have been arrested by the Society For the Prevention Of Cruelty To Autos!

"He wanted to sell me because he thought I wasn't any good—when the only trouble was that he didn't know how to run me. I've been stepping along like a new car for this chap who's just bought me. He's a regular fellow.

"I was afraid for a while that I'd never be sold — none of my old owner's friends thought I was worth anything because they'd all seen him drive me.

"He was one of those fellows who's always fooling with your carburetor. Half the time he'd have my mixture so rich that I looked as though I was burning soft coal.

"But today the dope was all upset — five men came around to the garage to look me over—and I was sold to one of them right off the bat. From what I hear, I was advertised in the Automobile columns of today's POST-CRESCENT.

"I guess I auto known that!"

Man Made Blue By Girl He Will Wed

When a woman keeps telling herself that a certain man means nothing in her life, it's a pretty sure sign that he means everything.

The only woman that a man ever takes the trouble to study is the one he loves. But it's always the woman who studies him who lands him, in the long run.

The girl who can make a man utterly miserable is usually the one who can possibly make him happy.

The greatest need in life is to be in love with something—a person, a job, or an ideal.

QUESTIONS — ANSWERS

Dear Miss Gray: Before we were married six months ago my husband and I went out dancing almost every night. Now when he comes home and has dinner all he wants to do is read. I can't pry him loose from his chair. Isn't this unfair to me?—Brown Eyes.

It's very complimentary to you. It's because you and the home you've made are so attractive that he doesn't ask for anything else.

Dear Miss Gray: My older sister is a nice girl but she puts henna on her hair and paints her face and mouth. She says all the girls at the office where she works do it. Do older girls really do this—nice ones, I mean?—Julia.

The very nicest girls are brought up never to put anything on their faces but rice powder. Young girls look prettier, really, without make-up. But most of them don't know this.

DREAMS Each Has Its Own Meaning

Dreams about the teeth often occur, especially to those who are unfortunate enough to have to spend a good deal of time in the dentist's chair.

But these dreams are often omens of good. For instance, if your teeth appear white and sound, joy and prosperity is denoted.

If the other hand, if they are decayed, loss of fortune is foreseen. If you dream you lose a tooth, beware, for you may lose friends or a lover. An extra long one may mean that you are to quarrel with relatives.

INTERPRETATIONS

To dream of eating peas well rolled denotes an expedition of business with good success.

If you are drawing pictures, it is pleasure without profit.

When old women come into your dreams, unless they bring a friendly message and is one whom you know, beware of scandal.

An unknown person walking like in a vision denotes that a long lost one will suddenly return.

If during your slumbers you seem to be bothered by much yawning, it is a sign that you will have to expend more energy if you are to succeed.

Some Of The Best Styles Originate In America

BY MARIAN HALE

New York — "Where do fashions originate?"

Nine out of ten women would answer, "In Paris, of course."

When pressed for the reason for their answer, they'd fall back on "Why, everybody says so."

Well, everybody doesn't. Franklin Simon, president of the National Garment Retailers' Association of America, says that some of the best of them originate right here in the good old U. S. A.

You know the garconne type of dress—the supply boyish mode that has taken New York, Paris and Palm Beach by storm. If you weigh under 130 you probably wear it yourself, and if over you have it in a modified form.

Well, Franklin Simon says that's just the order in which the storm hit — New York, Paris and Palm Beach.

The idea originated where the boyish figures grow—that's not in France, the land of feminine curves, but in America where they say it straggles from the shoulder on down.

We fellow citizens, started it — then Paris copied it, adding the name—importers brought it back and we wore it with enthusiasm, thinking it was French!

The silhouette is essentially American," says Mr. Simon, "and was taken up in Paris only after it was established here. Our women wear clothes that are useful because they are more athletic and know the value of freedom of motion."

"The French woman is by no means the American type. Her figure is curved. Our women have length, slim lines—and they move. The realization of that is the foundation of truly American fashions."

The National Garment Retailers' Association is this season co-operating with the leading fabric manufacturers and garment designers of the country in organizing a national movement to promote distinctly American styles.

The first exhibition will be held in New York and later it will go to the large cities such as Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

It aims not only to feature American fabrics and fashions, but also typical American girls as models. Many of the girls who will wear the garments have been chosen from among famous artists' models of the country, whose faces smile down at the public everywhere from magazine covers and advertising posters.

TYPICAL GARCONNE FROCKS MADE UP IN THE NEWEST SPRING FABRICS WHICH THESE AMERICAN GIRLS WILL DISPLAY TO THE COUNTRY.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SALLY CARPENTON, CONTINUED

I put him up on the bed beside Leslie and what do you think that blessed child said, Sydney?

As if an uncanny intuition had come to him from out of the Cosmos, he put his arms up and laid them on her soft breast, and with never a quiver of the brave little mouth he said: "Zackie going to 'tay with you always. I cove you best of all. Alwayer yove Zackie best of all. His moist lips were held to hers and with a sigh of satisfaction he snuggled close.

Then the malign witches that stir the cauldron, seeing that we were too happy, tinkled a little telephone at the side of the bed. Naturally I picked it up, heard the voice of Karl Whittaker and I said I immediately said "Mrs. Prescott is too ill to talk to anyone." That would have satisfied the man at the other end, but I ought to have known it would not satisfy Leslie. She asked me who it was, and when I did not answer, she snatched the telephone from me, and said "Tell me what you want to know."

For a moment I was furious, "Syd, I won't have you talking to that fellow!"

Then to some question he asked, she said "Yes, dear."

She called him dear, Syd!

The next thing she said was, "It was a splendid letter—very brave, very self-sacrificing. I haven't had time to show it to Jack, but I'm going to."

Again the malign fates snared the cauldron, and I blurted out: "You'll have to show it very soon, for I'm going home on tonight's train."

Leslie said, "Goodby, I'll answer your letter tomorrow," was my ugly remark, then my wife showed equal temper to mine.

"I'll say I will. I'm tired of your sudden temper, John. I'm going to be a free-born white woman from now on. I've made all concessions possible. Either you let me explain and you accept my explanation at its face value, or we would better agree to disagree."

"I'd better say goodbye, then," I said.

At that moment Mother Hamilton came to the door.

"Jack, your father wants to see you," and I strode away.

The whole thing was an again. As I stumbled into Mr. Hamilton's room I said to myself that I would take the first train back to Albany.

Again the fates seemed to conspire against me, and it looks now as though I would soon be moving to Pittsburgh. I do not think, Syd, that Father Hamilton will ever again get up from his bed. Before I left his room he told me that he doesn't expect to get well, and you know when as brave a man as he says he has given up, he has practically lost the fight.

I was greatly shocked when I saw him, and was not able to keep all of my concern out of my face. He could hardly hold out a trembling hand to me, and spoke in a very weak voice as though to confirm what he said in my face.

"Yes, my boy, I have come to the end of the way. Except for my dear wife's sake, I think I will be perfectly content to go, for I am exceedingly tired, and a long sleep comes with an appealing gesture toward me."

Even that short speech was almost more than he could manage. Abruptly, however, he gathered strength.

"My boy," he said, "you must take over my business and carry on after I am gone."

Adventures Of The Twins

Sally Wiggleton's Dolls

"Do you know anybody else?" asked the Fairy Queen. "Anybody else who isn't happy?"

Nancy thought a minute. "I know a little girl who treats her dolls something awful," she said, and by "She carries them around by the arms and even sometimes by the hair. And she never washes their faces at all."

"How dreadful!" exclaimed the Fairy Queen. "We had better go there at once and see about it. Tell Two Spot where to go."

"It's Sally Wiggleton," said Nancy to the butterfly. "She lives in the city on the corner of Orange street and Walnut avenue."

"All right," said Two Spot flapping his blue velvet wings with the rose colored edges. "Stick on tight, every body, I'm going to start."

Away he flew over fields and forests and ponds and little villages, with the Fairy Queen and the Twins sitting comfortably on his black velvet back.

The Fairy Queen was driving, but then she hadn't much driving to do because Two Spot knew every place and everybody.

Very soon they came to the city. They had to go up narrow streets and back ways for a great blue but teddy with three passengers on his back would be sure to attract attention.

By and by they came to the corner of Orange street and Walnut avenue

Safety Hints

COSMETICS ARE HAZARDOUS

Among materials used in cosmetics some present hazards. Rouge, face checks and lipsticks have caused serious mercury poisoning, owing to the presence of vermilion (mercury sulphide). Hair dyes generally contain ingredients which should not be taken internally. Treat materials of this kind as poisons. Don't let baby chew mother's powder puff.

Satin Skirt And Blouse Make Neat Costume

The blouse and skirt, while it is not actually sponsored as a fashion favorite, can be worked in the smartest manner if you want to work it that way.

Consider the sports and semi-sports dresses of the moment. Many of them are made with what looks to be a separate waist and skirt. You may find, upon examination, that they are all most properly fastened together to make a veritable dress, but that is no reason why your own ingenuity should not enter the race and provide waists and skirts for yourself that have exactly the same appearance.

FOUNDATIONS IMPORTANT

A girl who hadn't much money to spend on her clothes took all of this into consideration and she went ahead and bought herself a very handsome plated black crepe satin skirt. This was fastened on an under bodice so that it swung rather loosely from her shoulders. This, then was her foundation for many costumes.

First of all, she had a black blouse of the same material as the skirt. This was made with a flat square neck, and a low waistline wide, where a belt of the same material finished it off, and long sleeves. This was a costume for any occasion, which she could readily liven up with pearls or colored strings of beads or earrings of precious stones.

ARTISTIC COMBINATION

Her next venture was a printed silk bodice with short sleeves and a V neckline having only a narrow black ribbon for a tiny necktie trimming. Then she found a remnant of silver cloth at a very much reduced rate and this she had made up into a long waisted bodice for evening or dinner or a fancy luncheon. By this time she had the fever. Everything seemed to be going with such great success. She bought a red bodice for everyday wear and one of spangled stuff to make another evening frock. And she would have it that this on skirt did her for most

KNOCKS 'EM OUT QUICK

Toughest of Old Hang On Coughs Go

Why send a boy to do a man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along towards the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the real destroyer of tough old coughs is Broncholine Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Broncholine likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two month's cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough.

Ask Vogt's Drug Store, Union Pharmacy or any wide awake druggist for a bottle of Broncholine Emulsion. There's no dope in it—no chloroform and a couple of teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough adv.

They all had a grievance. "I don't have to stay here," said the Fairy Queen. "I will give each of you a wish. Think hard, all of you!"

of the winter because she had provided it with enough tops to disguise the fact that it was ever present.

You can do this with a wrap around cloth skirt, if you wish, having a bodice, a cloth one and another of rough ratine. You can do it with a silk and chiffon bodices to give it its variety.

The fact is that the waist and skirt, while it can be muddled with out trouble at all, can also be most interesting and beautiful, all depending upon the way in which you manage the combinations, the hanging, the style and the color scheme.

How the Motor Industry Set the Pace for Highway Building

The "horseless carriage" of yesterday is now being produced as the modern automobile at the rate of 4,000,000 a year. The total number of motor vehicles registered in the United States is considerably over 17,000,000.

And automobiles built today are more than ever capable of economically serving both business and recreation needs.

But there is an obstacle standing in the way of their maximum service to owners.

For while the automobile industry made paved highways an economic necessity, the mileage of such roads is today years behind the requirements of modern traffic.

Happily motorists everywhere are boosting for more and wider paved highways.

And extensive experience has taught them that Concrete Highways are one of the best all-around investments they can make—an investment that pays big dividends.

As one of our millions of motorists you know better than anyone else the need for more and wider Concrete Roads. Start now to help your local officials provide them.

HILLS TAKES 2 STRAIGHT FALLS FROM ANDERSON

Volkoff Wins Bout From Former Notre Dame Varsity Star

Giant Norwegian Tries Rough Tactics on Appleton Favorite but George Shows Him How

George Hills of Appleton Tuesday night threw Andre Anderson of Pittsburgh for two straight falls in the main feature of a twin wrestling bill here after Hassan Volkoff, Bulgarian champion, had pinned Nick Lutz, former Notre Dame football star, two out of three falls. Both matches were fast and hardfought. Volkoff weighed in at 230 pounds while Lutz carried 218 pounds of beef, and Hills conceded Anderson who fought at 233 pounds an 18 pound handicap.

Lutz won his first fall from Volkoff in 19 minutes with a reverse arm lock and body scissors. The former Notre Dame star is a husky lad and pitted his great strength against Volkoff's superior science, breaking out of the Bulgur's best holds by main strength. Both men used arm locks and headlocks almost exclusively in the first fall.

During the double windup wrestling card in Armory C Tuesday night, Elmer Johnson announced the receipt of a telegram from Stanislaus Zbyzsko, veteran Polish maf king, offering to meet the winner of the Hills Anderson match in a finish fight here on Mar. 3.

While Johnson was unable to announce at this early date whether he could arrange to stage the card on that day, Hills probably will accept.

In view of the fact that old man fans who were ardent followers of George on his previous sojourn here and have watched him closely since his return state he has improved 100 per cent, Zbyzsko probably will find his hands full if the match is arranged.

In their second clash Lutz unlimbered and showed he knew a few tricks of his own besides merely depending on his wonderful physique. He lugged himself out of a number of had armlocks, and got Volkoff's head under his own arm, at the same time clinching on a body scissors which gave the Bulgur something to worry about. After 15 minutes of fast work Volkoff got a double bar arm and pinned the collegian's shoulders to the mat. Lutz came back for the third fall with his right shoulder sagging from a strained tendon, but lasted 16 minutes.

LUTZ IS GAME

Unable to use his right arm effectively he was forced to depend almost entirely on his left, and Volkoff got an armlock on the injured fin six times in succession. Lutz had done some damage himself during the first few minutes of the fall but when Volkoff clamped on a double bar arm, Lutz was unable to break it, and Volkoff got the match.

From the first Anderson, giant Norwegian, showed a tendency to rough it. Hills was willing and gave him better than he got Anderson's favorite trick was to lock both hands behind Hills' head and grind the top of his own into George's face. A little of this went a long way with Hills who tried the same thing on his opponent with no success. Anderson didn't like it and protested to Barney Rhodes, referee, but without avail. While he was trying to tell Barney about it George dove under his guard and knocked him off his pins with a thud, getting a headlock and toehold as soon as they hit the mat. Anderson broke out of it after a bad minute.

Hills was too fast for the big fellow and tried every hold in the catalogue, but Anderson either broke out or rolled off the mat. The giant tried to wear Hills down with blows on vulnerable spots, but George was prepared for everything and got through without great damage. After 22 minutes of rough going, Hills got a double armlock and body scissors which forced the giant to quit.

BOTH LOSE TEMPER

The second fall lasted but 10 minutes. Both men had lost their tempers and Rhodes had a hard time parting them when they got off the mat, which happened at least ten times. Several times Hills almost had the big Norwegian pinned when he rolled off the mat. They threw each other into the crowd frequently once Anderson, suffering from a nice toe hold that bothered him badly and with his head in a tight lock under Hills' arm, grabbed a handful of the Appleton wrestler's hair but Rhodes warned him he would forfeit the fall if he persisted, and Anderson let go.

Thereafter he pounded Hills' neck with his locked hands, ground his chin into the back and kidneys and pulled every trick he knew to weaken Hills. While they were kneeling on the mat Hills got a hold on Anderson's head and threw him off the mat with a flying mare. Shortly thereafter Hills got an armlock and a crochhold, and from that worked into a legsplit. With one foot on Anderson's right ankle, George seized the other ankle and got up. When he exerted a little pressure Anderson threatened to split and rolled on the mat in agony. Rhodes got down close to watch and Anderson, mistaking him for Hills or possibly looking for something solid to grip, threw a handful of Ramsey's hair and curly locks and started shaking him. Bar-

EXPORT OF METALS FROM GERMANY SHOWS DECLINE

Nuremberg—The metal ware exports of Germany recently have amounted to only about 40 per cent of the prewar figures, according to an announcement of the German Metal Manufacturers' Association.

The decline, it is said, is due to protective measures adopted by many countries which formerly consumed considerable quantities of German goods.

They managed to get away without loosening his head from his shoulder and Anderson decided he's had enough.

AZZARELLA MEETS GLASER IN WINDUP OF OSHKOSH MENU

American Legion Will Stage Classy Card Thursday Night

Oshkosh — An exceptionally fine boxing card has been arranged by the American Legion Post at Oshkosh for Thursday night, Feb. 19.

In the ten round semi-windup Charlie Glaser of Chicago will meet Joe Azzarella, the fighting Italian from Milwaukee. Both of these boys have met some of the best boxers in their division in the country. Sammy Mandell, who recently gained a decision over Sid Terris in the east, is one of the good boys who both Azzarella and Glaser have boxed. A rematch is now pending between Mandell and Azzarella at the Auditorium in Milwaukee, providing Azzarella is willing to follow Joey Sangor in deserting the Milwaukee boxing league.

Supporting the windup, matchmaker Hub Ryan, has arranged an exceptionally fine windup. Batting Herb, the idol of Oshkosh boxing fans, will clash with Joe Ortiz of Milwaukee. Ortiz has not done much boxing in the northern country but in all matches where he has appeared he has made a fine showing. He recently disposed of Johnny Hoffmann in four rounds at Milwaukee.

The promoters feel this is really a windup affair and the fans should get their money's worth if there was not another match on the card.

In the six round preliminary, Young Shaw will battle Jake Lang, both of Oshkosh. This is a match the Oshkosh fans have waited long to see, and it is stirring up considerable enthusiasm.

The four round opener will introduce Norm Marsh of Cadott, Wis. cousin, who is being brought out by Patsy Callahan of Neenah. Norm is a freak in every sense of the word. He stands six feet two and weighs 125 pounds. According to all available records he is the tallest man for his weight who has ever appeared in the ring, and the fans will await with considerable curiosity in the outcome of his battle with Young Dobish of Oshkosh.

Undoubtedly, this is one of the finest cards that has been arranged in the Fox River Valley for some time and a number of fans from this city are planning on making the trip to Oshkosh to witness this exceptional card.

Sweden's contribution to the list of international beauties is Segrud Holmquist, whose blond daintiness well entitles her to a place in the world's gallery of beauty.

Elizabeth Miller, 16, Toledo gypsy, claims her father sold her in marriage to George Mitchell, 16, for $500 and three "skinny" horses. She has run away from her husband of two weeks and asks police to "help me be an American girl."

The latest in bathing suits is water-wave and made of human hair, but don't go near the water. It's intended to be ornamental rather than useful. It was made for Miss Helene Levele, the beautiful bather, who is shown here demonstrating it. It will be exhibited in Paris fashion display in 1925.

Vilhelme Banky is but 19 years old, but already has become one of the favorites of the European movie public, for her daredevil stunts in the air. She is an all around athlete, besides being an expert aviator.

Here is shown a tense moment in the hockey game between Oxford University and a crack team of Davos, Switzerland. The picture shows a scramble round the goal of Davos. The game ended in a draw, each side scoring two goals.

More honors for an American singer. Mme. Bernice de Pasquali, American diva, has been awarded Europe's highest musical honor—honorary membership in the Royal Academy Philharmonic of Rome. She is the only singer in the world to be so distinguished.

Mrs. Thomas J. Nolan has been selected by Tammany Hall, the nationally known Democratic machine of New York City, to act as district leader of the First District, one of the most important posts in the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Shepherd, snapped as they arrived in Chicago the second time to face their investigators in the probe begun into the death of William Nelson McClintock, Shepherd's millionaire foster son.

"Weather Or Not"

There aren't any rain checks with Post-Crescent ads. They play the game--in all kinds of weather!

Weather doesn't make any difference with these little ads. Every day--hot or cold, clear or stormy--they carry their message right into the homes of thousands of interested reader-buyers.

"Ten prospective buyers called to look at my house--in the rain. I don't know what would have happened on a clear day," an advertiser recently wrote.

Like the U. S. Mails, the Post-Crescent's classified ads go about their business quickly and systematically--regardless of all outside conditions.

Wherever the Post-Crescent goes, the classified ads go, too--read and answered by Appleton people.

When you want to use one of these faithful little workers--call 543 and ask for an ad-taker.

LONDON LIFE AS GOOD TO READ AS IT IS TO WATCH

Bennett and Knoblock Collaborate to Write Interesting Story

BY M. G. ROEMER
In London Life, (George H. Doran Co.) Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblock once more have combined their genius to produce a three act play whose deft building of character has made it one of the features of the 1924 theatrical season and extremely interesting to the readers' standpoint. "Clinging closely to life, the two famous collaborators have portrayed the rise to success of characters in widely divergent walks of life. Business, politics and social advancement with an undercurrent of love are the basis of a strong plot which holds one's interest from the first word to the last.

Simon Blackshaw is the central figure of the play. On his first appearance he is a successful country gentleman whose ambition is to establish a practice in London where he plans to enter politics. In the course of his practice he becomes acquainted with Oriana Opletree, wife of an insolvent captain whose debts have thrown him into the clutches of a Hebrew money lender. Simon has grown beyond his homeloving, rather stolid wife, Maria and is strongly attracted to Oriana, whose husband he is instrumental in freeing from the clutches of Howard Nathan, the ex-terminator. Nathan, for his own ends, backs George Dream, a music hall actress who has lost her place, and makes her a nationally known star.

Having climbed the political ladder to the post of M. P., Simon, with the aid of Oriana who also has risen to great social heights in London, is appointed colonial secretary. Nathan, whose extortions meanwhile have made him wealthy and brought him a baronetcy, has not forgotten his grievance against Simon and plots his ruin. Doris, Simon's vivacious daughter, and Edgar Dart, a rising journalist whose love for her is unrequited, attempt to avert the disaster Nathan has planned. They succeed in clearing his name, but the publicity forces him to resign from the cabinet. Not content with this blow the fates deprive him of the love and support of Oriana who renounces her passion on the sudden death of her husband for which she blames herself.

Simon withdraws from the city to Bursley of the Five Towns, the scene of his early success, and there, in the circle of his family applies himself to the rebuilding of his fortunes. He has forsaken politics as an ungrateful profession, but when he is proffered the nomination as M. P. from his district, he yields to the urgings of Maria and Doris, Dart and Pidduck, his faithful clerk, and decides to try again.

Doris discovers her love for Dart, and the curtain falls with Simon planning once more to achieve his high ambition.

The development of the various characters in Mr. Bennett's and Mr. Knoblock's most recent drama, without doubt makes it their greatest work. The recent drama, without doubt makes it their greatest work. The action is rapid but always clear and true to life. Like their previous play, it might be considered neither satire or comedy, but is neither exclusively.

With The Lovers Of Books Adventures In The Library By ARNOLD MULDER

A LOCAL COLORIST OF THE SOUTH
Two weeks ago, the last day of January to be exact, the newspaper carried the story of the death of George Washington Cable at the age of 81 years. One of the south's most distinguished writers, he is invariably mentioned when any critic gives a list of the writers of that section that genuinely count. In fact whenever critics called attention to the comparative paucity of worthwhile writers south of the Mason and Dixon line at present, an exception is almost invariably made of Cable.

The passing of such a man is perhaps worthy of a few words even though Cable will probably not go down into world literary history as an outstanding figure. He may not stand out when a survey of the writers of the whole world is taken but at least he stands out in the "solid south" and that is something.

Another thing that is worth noting is that Cable's life spans almost the whole period of disunion, civil war and reunion. He was born in 1844 in New Orleans and his boyhood was spent in a section where and at a time when the rumblings of the approaching civil conflict were constantly being heard. Moreover, he was a part of an aristocratic civilization on this continent that definitely came to an end with the war and that will very likely never be revived. Very few southerners were privileged to carry the sense of that tradition into post-war American literature.

He fought in the Confederate army and it was not until 1879 that he definitely became an author. But something of all that was admirable in the "solid south" is embodied in Cable's books and the present generation can perhaps better understand the spirit of the old south by reading something of this writer whose life spanned two epochs in our history and who became the possession of the whole country.

But it is as a local colorist that George W. Cable merits attention. Local color has gone out of fashion lately and I think deservedly so. When local color is applied, as it often is, like rouge on a woman's face there is little or nothing to be said for it. Local color for local color's sake deserves the condemnation it has received from those who set high store by sincerity in art.

But when local color is naturally a part of a writer's art, when he employs it because he cannot very well help himself, it often adds greatly to the charm of his books. It is a little like a brogue in a person's speech or an eastern or southern or English accent. When it comes naturally and unconsciously it is usually delightful; when it is assumed it is always disgusting.

George W. Cable's local color was almost unconscious and it was almost inevitable. Simply and naturally he told the stories of the Creoles of Louisiana. He told their story because from babyhood up he had lived among them, had loved them, had studied them. He did not choose the Creoles as material for his books because they were a picturesque people and because he was determined to write local color stories about a picturesque people. He chose the Creoles because he knew them best and because he could hardly help himself. He did the natural and the almost inevitable thing. Hence his work is stamped with sincerity and hence few will care to hold it against him that he is a local colorist.

His very first book, published in 1879, was called "Old Creole Days" and the word "Creole" appears again and again in his titles and is scattered through his pages.

To my mind his second book, "The Grandissimes," published in 1880, is his most delightful story, and if there are present-day readers who have made no acquaintance with Cable, they can at least not go wrong by taking that book off the library shelf. It is not exciting in the usual sense, not the kind of book that you "can't lay down," but it has a delicate flavor of Creole chivalry and courtesy that more than makes up for plot excitement.

BOOKS AND BOOK MEN

WHAT IS PURE POETRY?
In one of the Conversations in Ebury Street by George Moore (Boni & Liveright) he says to Mr. John Freeman and Mr. Walter De La Mare "My dear friends, I have a proposal to lay before you. If you approve of my definition of pure poetry, something that the poet creates outside of his own personality, we might compile a book that would be a real advancement in the study of poetry—an anthology of pure poetry, the only one that is lacking on the bookshelves. The value of the anthology, if we compile it, would be that it creates a new standard. Of course, we should have to explain in the introduction why we discarded one poem and kept another." Unlike so many literary plans, this one came to fruition. Boni & Liveright have published an edition limited to 1000 copies, each one signed by Mr. Moore, of his Anthology of Pure Poetry, with an introduction. It begins with a poem by John Skelton and ends with one by Swinburne, and includes work by Fletcher, Blake, Shelly, Tennyson, and many others.

WANT C. C. HERE TO WORK FOR CIVIL AIR BUREAU

Appleton Chamber of Commerce has been asked to support Bill S. 76 now pending before the house of representatives and urge the representative from this district to give it his utmost support. In a letter from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The bill creates a bureau of civil air navigation in the department of commerce and encourages and regulates civil aeronautics. The congressional hearing developed strong support and no serious opposition, but it is possible that the bill may not be acted upon because of the short time remaining and the press of legislation.

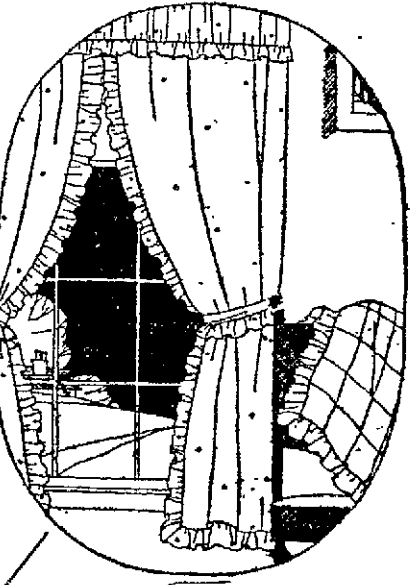

The National Chamber of Commerce has gone on record as favoring the bill because of its help to commercial aeronautics.

Sex Blotted Out In Wilds Of Jungland

"It was not the same being—sex had disappeared."

In this sentence Lady Richmond Brown, slender and lovely member of the British aristocracy, explains the psychology of a woman in the heart of a savage, denuded jungle country.

It appears in her book "Unknown Tribes and Uncharted Seas" (Appleton), which relates to her amazing South American adventure, during which the unknown tribe of Chiniqua Indians were discovered. It is a true and thrilling record of one of the most perilous undertakings ever attempted by a woman and it won for her fellowships in a dozen noted geographic and scientific bodies.

But the question is always asked, how does a modern woman, casually stepping out of modern social life feel under these trying circumstances and how does she stand the privations? This is interestingly explained in a preface.

It is strange what a metamorphosis takes place in the virginal wilds—suddenly one seems to fit into the surroundings. One's entire viewpoint seems to change, one becomes part of the primal jungle economy, no domestic worry no thought of dress, no softening influence. The veneer of civilization disappears. One reverts to the primitive.

"I have seen a wild pig killed its throat cut to bleed it and within an hour or two, I have eaten it with more zest than I would the most carefully prepared dish at home."

Here is a book to take you far away from the fireplace on a winter's night and while, as she admits early in the book, Lady Brown is no great writer, she has a great story to tell that needs only a story teller, and surely she is that.

"The great plays of the world have all been written because their authors wanted to see how strong a kick they could deliver to the emotions of a gathered audience."

This sentence by Clayton Hamilton suggests the yardstick by which judgment.

The FAIR DRY GOODS COMPANY
ESTABLISHED—1890 (INCORPORATED)
201-203 E. COLLEGE AVE., APPLETON, WIS.

FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK AND COLLEGE AVENUE, APPLETON

aren't so far apart, judging from a letter just received from Mr. Frank, who is now in New York. We glean the following items of interest from his correspondence:

WOOLENS
Kasha. (see our Fairy Cashmere), flannel and jersey were the most often exhibited. Exceptionally attractive was a coat of half-and-half material seen in a shop just off the Avenue.

HOSIERY
The great mass of women on Fifth Avenue were wearing flesh colored stockings, with a tan, rather than pink, tinge. Some black and some sport hose were seen. Saks-Fifth Avenue featured strikingly patterned sport hose at from $2.95 to $10.50 a pair. Hanan's also emphasized sport hose. NOTE: Remember, all our stockings are guaranteed.

SCARFS
Of silk in striking colors and designs, were noted in Arnold Constable's, Franklin Simon's, Lord and Taylor's, Best's and elsewhere.

SWEATERS
Franklin Simon are showing jersey slip-over sweaters with buttons half-way down the front. The Chanel models were also emphasized by Saks-Fifth Avenue, and other shops.

SILKS
Corded silks, such as bengaline, are being shown by Altman's, Bonwit Teller, and Arnold Constable, made into dresses, coats, wraps, and ensemble costumes. Best's are emphasizing black satin for similar uses. Lord and Taylor had a beautiful display of printed silks and ombre georgette.
